

TEHERAN PARLIAMENT IS SHELLED BY ARTILLERY

Seventy Casualties During Outbreak in Shah's Capital--Fighting all Day--Brutal Behaviour of Cossacks

London, June 24.—A special dispatch from Tehran to the Times says that the killed and wounded in yesterday's fighting totalled 70, the casualties being heavy among the Nationalists. Several deputies were killed. The foreign residents are in no danger as the town is in the hands of the Russian General Liakhoff.

Gen. Liakhoff, according to this dispatch, directed the operations of the tribal cavalry, the Silahkar regiment going into the fray later. The fighting lasted for two hours after which the parliament house and the adjacent buildings were bombarded at close range, the 200 defenders of the former building eventually being scattered.

The looting which followed the firing was indescribable and continued throughout the day. The Times correspondent says that the behavior of the troops, including the Cossacks, was disgraceful. The mosque, the neighboring houses at the palace of Prince Zille-Sultan and the estate of Azined Dowich were entirely or partially destroyed. In addition peaceful citizens were killed and robbed. Twenty-five Nationalists are prisoners in the hands of the Cossacks.

Bomb Starts Bloodshed.

Paris, June 24.—Special dispatches received here from Tehran say that the fighting began about 5 a. m. and was provoked by a bomb thrown from the roof of one of the buildings among the Cossacks. The fighting continued until late in the afternoon many being killed on both sides.

The Shah sent the Cossacks and artillery to surround the parliament buildings as a result of parliament's ultimatum, refusing to hand over certain persons whose arrest the Shah had ordered. An officer, accompanied by fifty soldiers, requested the assembly to surrender five men who had been leaders in the agitation against the Shah. This being refused the officer led men to guard the doors, while he proceeded to military headquarters for further instructions. An hour or more later, and before the troops had taken any action, a bomb was thrown from a roof among the Cossacks. It killed two horses and did other damage and created a panic owing to the absence of the officers. The latter hurried back, and were fired at while passing from the roof of one of the buildings. The Cossacks were ordered to return their fire and there was a lively exchange which continued for three hours. Later artillery was sent into action and kept up shelling the assembly buildings for several hours. When all was over it was found that the casualties on both sides were very large. Apparently blank shells were fired at the beginning, as the damage to the buildings was very slight for a considerable time. A man who fought on the roof of the parliament buildings says that he and the others fired steadily into the troops until the ammunition failed, and the rifles were too hot to hold any more. Eventually a shell crashed through the door of the parliament buildings and the Cossacks charged, the occupants of the buildings fleeing to the ground behind the house. The soldiers had no sooner entered the place than they began to loot it, next turning their attention to the neighboring shops and the palace of Prince Zille-Sultan. Hundreds of people, it was stated, who a few days ago assembled before the parliament and demonstrated against the Shah, now proceeded to the work of demolishing the building with cries of "Long live the Shah." "We don't want a constitution."

Russo-British Action.

London, June 24.—A special to the Times from St. Petersburg says that the Russian and British representatives at Tehran have been instructed to remind Prince Zille-Sultan of his promise of loyalty toward the present government, and to acquaint him of the determination of the two powers to take him to his promise. With the exclusion of this possible danger of civil war, it is hoped that the situation will soon be clear.

MYSTERY OF MISSING CHILD.

No Trace of Olive Dupray, Who Disappeared From Train Near Fort William.

Fort William, Ont., June 24.—A. Dupray, father of the missing girl, has returned from Pins, where he was engaged for the past three days in the search for his daughter, who disappeared from the train on Wednesday last. Some two hundred men took part in the search for miles on both sides of the track.

William Higgins, brother-in-law of the lost girl, is of the opinion that the play occurred. He does not think that the little girl wandered off alone. He also admits that there is a possibility of the girl being stolen by her mother, who is not dead, as claimed by Mr. Dupray. Mrs. Dupray ran away from her home here about two years ago, and is thought to be in Chicago. The missing girl was a great favorite of the mother, and there is a great probability of the mother being mixed up in the strange disappearance.

In Hands of Negroes.

Winnipeg, June 24.—Hotel runners at the Canadian Northern depot here state positively that a girl answering the description of little Olive Dupray came in on the delayed Duluth train accompanied by two strange, well-dressed negroes.

INFANT BURNS TO DEATH.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 24.—On board the steamer Perry, which stranded recently at Hawkesbury, were two little children, one of them a girl three years old, who were sent in charge of the ship's officers by their father from Boston, addressed to their grandmother, Mrs. John Hughes, St. Patrick's road. They made the trip all right and went to live with the grandmother. On Monday the little girl was burned to death in a fire which destroyed her grandmother's house.

ABANDONED TO UNDERWATERS.

Steamer Arundel Is Total Wreck Near Thousand Islands Park.

Kingsport, Ont., June 24.—The steamer Arundel, which ran on Pine View shoal, near Thousand Islands park, on Thursday, has been abandoned to the underwaters. Powerful tugs could not pull her off. The steamer was on her first trip from Alexandria bay to Oswego in charge of Capt. J. E. Meno, of Port Huron, also on his first trip. High water covering the shoal caused the accident. The steamer was built in 1874 and has been twelve years on the river and is worth $25,000.

GALT HAS SHOCKING CATTLE MAIMING CASE

Valuable Horses Fatally Injured in Revolting Fashion.—Man Arrested.

Galt, Ont., June 24.—A dastardly outrage was perpetrated early on Sunday morning at the Central hotel stables, when two valuable horses were killed in a most revolting manner. The horses were the property of Thomas Riddle, of Beverley, and J. J. Thompson, of Blenheim. The horses had been left at the hotel stables and were heard raising a disturbance about 12 o'clock. Investigation revealed the fact that both were fatally wounded. The weapon, a broom handle with the end sharpened to a fine point, was found outside the barn.

Both horses died within a few hours. A post mortem by a veterinary showed most horrible cruelty. Chief German arrested James Burn, of Roseville, who has confessed.

Moffatt, Jr., and five non-union moulders in the works of the Moffatt Steel Company, as they were coming out of the Methodist church on Sunday night. The accused were released on bail of $200 each. The trial comes up on Friday.

MONTREAL HIGHWAYMEN.

Italians Supposed to Be Responsible For Outrage.

Montreal, June 24.—With a bullet in his head, and claiming to have been attacked by a couple of highwaymen thought to be Italians on the lower Lachine road, Euclid Gratton, a traveler in the employ of Gratton & Co., tobaccoists, called at police headquarters to report the circumstances. Gratton was taken to the hospital, where the bullet was extracted. The wound is not a very serious one. After the shots were fired the highwaymen made their escape. They had evidently been frightened by an approaching auto. The police have so far been unable to trace the highwaymen.

Montreal Professor Sails to Old Land on Romantic Quest.

Montreal, June 24.—Professor W. T. Moon, principal of a business college of this city, along with his father, W. C. Moon, of Sydney, Ont., sailed a few days ago for London, England, to engage lawyers and lay their claims before the proper authorities in the hope that they may secure a share of the millions which it is said another branch of the family has already proved to belong to the Moons.

Queen Victoria street, London, from the Mansion House westward some little distance, is the locality in which the millions of dollars' worth of property referred to is situated.

INVESTIGATION OF JAPANESE QUESTION

Baron Tahahasi, Special Commissioner, Gives Interview on His Findings.

St. Paul, June 24.—The Pioneer Press to-day prints an interview with Baron Kagura Tahahasi who has been investigating the Japanese situation in the United States and Canada for the Mikado's government. In the interview the baron says:

"It is the desire of the Japanese government to thoroughly understand the position of America on the Japanese question. The government well recognizes that some of its citizens have been the causes of disturbances on this side which have shaken the even tenor of localities and disturbed our government too."

"My report will state to the Japanese government that the collection of Japanese immigrants in the cities of the Pacific coast is detrimental to friendly relations between the two countries, and is actually in some cases an intrusion, so far as concerns the Americans who labor on the liberties and rights of the people who already inhabit this country. My report will advise that immigrants reaching the coasts of America be compelled to have in reserve, sufficient money to take them across the Rocky mountains, and into the agricultural regions of the middle west."

EASTERN BANK GOES TO THE WALL

Total Assets of Defunct St. Hyacinthe Institution Are $1,576,443.

(Special to the Times.)
St. Hyacinthe, Que., June 24.—At a meeting of the directors of the Banque de St. Hyacinthe it was decided that the bank should suspend payment. Accordingly it did not open its doors for business this morning.

The notes of the bank are of course perfectly good and worth the face value, being guaranteed by the $4,000,000 note redemption fund deposited by the Canadian banks with the Dominion government.

According to the reports of the chartered banks of the Dominion made to May, the total assets are $1,576,443.

In addition to the head offices at St. Hyacinthe the bank has branches at St. Cesar, Drummondville, Farnham, Iberville and Lascompte.

As is customary in the Church of England service, the officiating clergyman, accompanied by a surpliced choir, met the bridal procession at the door and preceded it up the chapel, the choir singing "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us."

Rev. Edgar Sheppard, canon of St.

George's chapel, Windsor, where King Edward and Queen Alexandra attend services when in residence in Windsor Castle, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. William Grosvenor, rector of the church of the Incarnation, New York, the church of which Mr. and Mrs. Reid have been members for many years, and Rev. Hiers Claughton, rector of Hutton-Brentwood, a cousin of the groom.

The bride's dress was of soft white satin, trimmed with old rose point lace, given her by her grandmother. The fronts of the skirt and waist were practically covered with this lace, which was caught up with white rosebuds and orange blossoms. The bride wore but three pieces of jewelry, and these all were old-fashioned brooches, the wedding presents of King Edward, Queen Alexandra and Mr. Ward.

Miss Jennie Crocker, of San Francisco, a cousin of the bride, attended her, and was the only bridesmaid. There were also in attendance five little children, two boys and three girls, all in quaint costumes of blue and white.

Major George L. Holford, querry-in-waiting to the King, supported Mr. Ward.

Indications point to prorogation in three or four weeks' time. The leaders are nearing a combine on the election bill and numbers on both sides are anxious to get away. The ministers after the strain of a seven months' session are badly in need of rest and their health is suffering from the continued stress of working from twelve to sixteen hours per day.

The Hodgins committee will make an unanimous report to parliament, the opposition members withdrawing the request for any further investigation of the charges of over-classification and recognizing that the quietest way out of the fiasco is the best. The evidence will be reported to the House in regular course.

LEAD BOUNTY BILL PASSES COMMITTEE STAGE

Opposition Withdraws Request for Further Investigation Into Hodgins' Charges.

Ottawa, June 24.—The government bill providing an extension of the lead bounty for five years passed the committee stage in committee this morning without any decided objections from the opposition.

Mr. Foster took occasion to thank W. Gallier for his lucid presentation of the case of the British Columbia lead miners, and said he hoped to see Mr. Gallier some day as minister of finance.

Indications point to prorogation in three or four weeks' time. The leaders are nearing a combine on the election bill and numbers on both sides are anxious to get away. JOINED IN WEDLOCK AT NANAIMO CITY

Mr. J. W. Heaps and Miss Gertrude Horne Principals in Interesting Ceremony.

(Special to the Times.)
Nanaimo, June 24.—A very fashionable wedding took place here this morning at St. Paul's church, when Miss Gertrude Horne, daughter of Postmaster Horne, of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. James Wilton Heaps, son of Ald. E. H. Heaps, of Vancouver. The Rev. Silva White performed the marriage service.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Horne and Miss Esme Horne, sisters of the bride, and Miss Gladys Miller and Connie Heaps, of Vancouver. Miss Heaps, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Miss Elsie Heaps and Olive and Francis Miller, of Vancouver, were flower girls.

A large number of guests were present from Nanaimo, Vancouver, Victoria and other points. After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents on Albert street. The young couple took the afternoon train for Seattle, Portland and other Sound points, on their return from which they will take up their residence at Cedar Grove, Vancouver. The bride was very popular in Nanaimo and carries with her the best wishes of a host of friends.

KING IN ATTENDANCE AT WARD-REID NUPTIALS

U. S. Ambassador's Daughter is Honored by England's Royalty.

London, June 24.—With King Edward and Queen Alexandra smiling approval from their private gallery, Miss Jean Reid, daughter of Whitelaw Reid, the United States ambassador to Great Britain, was married yesterday afternoon in the Chapel Royal at St. James' palace to Hon. John Hubert Ward, brother of the Earl of Dudley, and querry-in-waiting to the King. The ancient chapel, one of the few remains of the old palace of the Tudors, in which Queen Victoria and several of her daughters were married, was prettily decorated with flowers for this the most fashionable of recent weddings in London.

A great crowd assembled in St. James' square to watch the arrival of the bridal party and the King and Queen and other members of the royal family, who by their attendance at the chapel and at the subsequent reception at Dorchester House, the city residence of Ambassador Reid, paid a compliment to the American ambassador and his daughter.

The invitations, which were limited to less than one hundred, on account of the smallness of the church, set the time of arrival at 2.45 p. m., and by that hour all the guests had found their seats.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by their suites, drove up from Buckingham Palace and proceeded at once to the royal gallery, where the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia already had arrived.

As is customary in the Church of England service, the officiating clergyman, accompanied by a surpliced choir, met the bridal procession at the door and preceded it up the chapel, the choir singing "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us."

REBELLION BREAKS OUT IN DUTCH SUMATRA

The Hague, June 24.—A rebellion has broken out at Padang, on the west coast of Sumatra, which has reached alarming proportions.

According to telegrams from Batavia, Java, almost the whole native population is reported to have risen under the leadership of fanatical priests. Thirty European settlements are spread over a wide area, and there are only 2,400 Dutch soldiers available to defend them.

Three battles have been fought, resulting in considerable loss on both sides. Preparations are being made to embark all the Dutch women and children from the west coast of Sumatra to places of safety.

The dissatisfaction arose over the tax regulations.

AIRSHIP TRIAL PROVES SUCCESS

EVOLUTIONS ARE HIGHLY SATISFACTORY

Enormous Mass Circles Over Prussian Soil Under Perfect Control.

Frederichshaven, June 24.—A second ascent was made last evening by Count Zeppelin in his new airship with a view to testing an improved side steering gear which has just been installed. On the first ascent Count Zeppelin declared that he was satisfied with everything excepting the side steering arrangement which had not come up to expectations. This had now been altered, and the change has given excellent results.

The test last night lasted a little over two hours during which time the most difficult manoeuvres were carried out without a hitch.

The great airship first circled around the town of Frederichshaven several times. It then departed at full speed towards Tengen, where it crossed to the Swiss side of Lake Constance against a light breeze. Proceeding back across the lake to Lindau, the count undertook at a height of from 300 to 500 feet above the surface of the water, a series of manoeuvres, including sinking and rising, turning and stopping, thoroughly testing the new arrangement of both the ascension and the side steering apparatus, which seemingly worked in a most satisfactory manner. The facility with which a change of direction of the enormous mass in the air was accomplished, deeply impressed the spectators.

TAFI PARTY TO ANTI-INJUNCTION PLANK

Platform Not Retreat From Roosevelt Policy, as Asserted by Bryan.

Columbus, O., June 24.—The reply of Attorney General Ellis to the criticism of Mr. Bryan on the republican national platform has suggested a further question as to how the anti-injunction plank as finally adopted came to be written. Upon this point Mr. Ellis made this statement last night:

"The anti-injunction plank as finally adopted was written by the friends of Secretary Taft on the sub-committee on resolutions and was approved by the secretary and president before it was proposed as a substitute for the original plank on this subject. In fact, every plank and practically every sentence in the republican platform as finally adopted was approved by the secretary, although those portions referring particularly to the work of the administration were not submitted to the president. Even the unimportant verbal changes between the draft as published before the convention and as finally adopted by the convention were made with the secretary's knowledge before the tentative draft was submitted to the committee."

"This statement is made in order to make clear the fact that the republican platform contains no suggestion for a retreat from the Roosevelt policies, stands squarely by the progressive principles of the party and was adopted because it had the emphatic approval of the party's candidate."

NOTED DEMOCRAT IS NO MORE

GROVER CLEVELAND WAS TWICE PRESIDENT OF U. S.

Lost Power in Second Term Through Financial Panic of 1893.

Princeton, N. J., June 24.—Grover Cleveland, former President of the United States, died suddenly at his home at Westland here at 8.45 o'clock this morning. Death was due to heart failure, complicated with other diseases. The passing away of Mr. Cleveland was not immediately announced, but was delayed until an official statement had been prepared by the physicians who had been attending him in the various periods of his illness.

The following statement signed by Drs. Joseph F. Bryant, D. L.; Geo. Lockwood, a lung specialist, and J. M. Garnochan was given out: "Mr. Cleveland for many years had suffered from repeated attacks of gastro-intestinal origin. He had a long standing organic disease of the heart and kidneys. Heart failure, complicated with pulmonary thrombosis and Oedema were the immediate cause of his death."

His Long Illness.

New York, June 24.—Mr. Cleveland was 71 years old in March last. During the past winter Mr. Cleveland kept close to his home in Princeton until the approach of his birthday, when he went to Lakewood with his family. He was a trustee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of this city, and up to the time of his going to Lakewood had attended to correspondence in connection with his duties for that society. After he went to Lakewood, however, he discontinued that work, and it soon developed that Mr. Cleveland was suffering from an attack of digestive trouble which he had experienced many times before. Mr. Cleveland was attended by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, of this city, and Dr. C. Howe, Lakewood, a specialist in stomach disorders, was called in to consultation.

Dr. Bryant made frequent visits to the distinguished patient at Lakewood. Mr. Cleveland occupied a suite of rooms on the second floor of the Lakewood hotel at Lakewood and was constantly attended by Dr. Gaudenier, the physician attached to the house, in addition to the visits of Dr. Bryant. The fact that Mr. Cleveland remained at the hotel after it had long been closed to guests and that for many weeks no attempt was made to take the former president to his home in Princeton, only a short distance away, early made it evident that Mr. Cleveland's condition was regarded as very serious.

On May last a report became current, which was said to have come from one of the officers of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, that Mr. Cleveland was suffering from cancer of the stomach. This was promptly denied by Mr. Parker, the secretary of the trustees of the Equitable Society, who afterwards acted for Mr. Cleveland in issuing statements of the condition of the former president. Mr. Parker said that Mr. Cleveland was suffering from his attacks of stomach trouble and that was all.

Mr. Cleveland remained at Lakewood for several weeks thereafter, and constant reports of improvement in his condition were issued from the hotel. About a month ago he was sufficiently recovered to be taken to his home in Princeton. It was reported that Dr. Bryant had been called to Mr. Cleveland's home in Princeton. Inquiries made as to the reason for this visit, brought reassuring reports, and it was with great surprise that the announcement of his death was received.

The surviving cabinet officers of President Cleveland were Secretary of State Olney; John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury, and Charles S. Fairchild, secretary of the interior, and attorney-general, Judge Harlan.

While Mr. Cleveland had been seriously ill from time to time, the announcement of his death came like a thunderbolt to those who had been watching his illness. Last night there was the slightest flurry among the friends of Mr. Cleveland, and something was seriously wrong with the president. This was occasioned by a visit of Dr. Bryant, of New York, Mr. Cleveland's physician for many years. Mrs. Cleveland later in the evening, discussing Dr. Bryant's visit, said there was no occasion for alarm, and that Mr. Cleveland was getting along nicely. This totally unprepared his friends for the announcement of his death.

Mrs. Cleveland was at home when her husband passed away. The children are at the Cleveland summer home at Tamworth, N. H., in charge of Mrs. Perrin, Mrs. Cleveland's mother. The Cleveland family came here from Lakewood, where the former president lay sick for many weeks on June 1st, and intended to go to their summer home as soon as Mr. Cleveland had gained sufficient strength to travel.

End Was Sudden.

Princeton, June 24.—The former president died in bed in the second story front room, where at his bedside when the end came those Mrs. Cleveland and three physicians. The only other persons in the house at the time were a number of servants. Dr. Bryant and Lockwood, who came here from New York early yesterday evening, remained at the Cleveland home all night, as was their custom when they visited Princeton. While Mrs. Cleveland did not wish to alarm her friends last night by telling them that

ALDERMAN MESTON HAS PENALTIES REMITTED

Full Court Finds That He Violated Law Unintentionally.

The appeal in the case of Mason vs. Meston has been decided against the late alderman with costs, but the penalty of $1,500 has been remitted. This was the decision of the Full court delivered this morning by the chief justice, the other judges, Mr. Justice Morrison and Mr. Justice Clement concurring.

The chief justice said this was an action to recover penalties under the Municipal Election act. It was alleged that Meston was indebted to the city for an unpaid judgment. If the matter had rested there it would have been a difficult matter to decide whether

MRS. MICHAEL BAKER DIED LAST NIGHT

A Well Known Resident of Victoria Passed Away.

The death of Mrs. Johannah Baker, of 954 Frederick street, widow of the late Michael Baker, until his death three years ago a well known business man of this city, occurred shortly after midnight last night. The late Mrs. Baker was born in Ottawa, Ont., 57 years ago and has been a resident of Victoria since 1875. Recently Mrs. Baker underwent an operation but until last evening was considered to be progressing well toward recovery.

Her son, Dr. A. R. Baker, of Vancouver, has been in Victoria since the operation attending at his mother's bedside. Last evening, however, as all danger appeared to be past, he left for his home in the Terminal City, but shortly after he had gone Mrs. Baker sank into a sleep from which she never awakened. Besides her son she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. George Gowen, of this city, and several grandchildren. A niece, Mrs. Leonard, of Detroit, is also in the city at the present time, having come here recently to spend the summer. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Season of the Northwestern League Has Been Lengthened by Two Weeks.

Every club in the Northwestern Baseball League had its franchise extended for five years at a meeting of the league directors held yesterday at Seattle. The circuit remains the same. CRIMEAN VETERAN WAS LAID AT REST

Remains of the Late Alexander Davidson Interred at Ross Bay.

With the burial at Ross Bay cemetery yesterday afternoon of the remains of the late Alexander Davidson, the last earthly honor was paid to one of the veterans of the Crimean war and the Indian Mutiny, whose numbers are so fast decreasing. The late Mr. Davidson was one of those who came safely through that awful campaign of the allies against Russia in 1854-5, and also took part the following year in putting down the Indian Mutiny, the horrors of which still affect men when they think of them.

There was a large attendance of mourning friends at the Reformed Episcopal church, where an impressive service was conducted by Right Rev. Bishop Grigg, assisted by Rev. T. W. Gladstone, the latter of whom also officiated at the grave. The late Mr. Davidson is survived only by his wife. The pallbearers were as follows: W. Grimm, C. Pointer, A. Dykes, W. Hicks, C. Ferne, W. H. Peters.

Parfitt Bros. this morning commenced the erection of the furnace at the city wharf for the destruction of the combustible portion of the garbage collected in the city.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Eliza Sleightholme, who died recently in the Old Ladies' Home, took place this afternoon at 2:15 from the parlors of the B. C. Funeral & Furnishing Co., proceeding thence to St. Barnabas' church, where services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Grundy. Many friends of the deceased lady were in attendance, and several floral offerings were presented. The interment took place in Ross Bay cemetery.

Superintendent Hussey, of the provincial police, has not received official confirmation from Provincial Constable Campbell, of New Westminster, of the identification of James Jenkins, the negro arrested for the murder of Mrs. Mary Morrison at Hazelmore, two weeks ago. Jenkins at the time of his arrest is said to have claimed to have been in Cloverdale at the time the murder took place, Cloverdale is but a few miles distant from Hazelmore. er there had been a contravention of the law or not. It was very difficult to understand the nomenclature of the act as to whether a judgment was a contract or not. His opinion was that a judgment was an obligation or debt. If construed in the ordinary way a contract did not include a judgment. A man he thought should not be disqualified from a seat in the council because he was indebted to the city.

There was a difference, however, in this case in that before the nomination day the defendant had made arrangements with the city for the reducing of the sum to be paid. This changed matters and brought it within the meaning of the act. The defendant had, however, gone into the matter quite unwittingly and thus brought himself within the reach of the statute. He must find that Meston was sitting in the council unlawfully.

In the matter of the penalty, however, the court had wide powers. He thought that owing to the peculiar position of the parties in the case, the court would remit the penalty, but they could not do the same with the costs which would have to be paid.

Other Appeals.

In Jessop vs. Anderson, the chief justice said it was simply a matter of fact. It was the invariable practice under these circumstances not to interfere with the decision of the trial judge, unless there was clearly a miscarriage of justice. The appeal was dismissed, all the judges concurring.

In Anderson vs. The Canadian Real Properties, the question was purely one of fact. The chief justice stated that as the trial judge had carefully gone over the ground and inspected the ditch which was in dispute it was not possible for them to say he was wrong.

Next, vs. Garvin was dismissed with costs.

In the matter of the costs in the trial of Narain Singh, the court decided that the crown should pay the costs when the case went against them. In this case they would follow the event.

instance, is figuring on spending $5,000 on the grounds there and will begin the spending right away. It is evidence that the league is sound financially and logically put together.

The directors took another radical step in extending the season this year for two weeks. Originally it was to close on September 21. Now it will close on October 4, and with the patronage baseball is drawing in all of the cities this move ought to be a good one. The pennant race gives every promise of being close up to the last game, and not a team but is now within striking distance either of the top of the ladder or the bottom.

His win was largely due to his personality which was in reality the great issue of the campaign. A feature of his term of office was his advocacy of a thorough reform of the civil service. His statement that "unnecessary taxation" was "unjust taxation" was taken up as the party's cry at the next election for president when Cleveland, who had again received the democratic nomination, was defeated in 1888. In 1892 he was again nominated for the third time and on this occasion was elected. The country suffered in 1893 from one of the most serious financial panics in its history, which, the republicans stated, was a result of the election of Cleveland. His presidential term was not a success and the overwhelming democratic defeat in the November elections of 1894 and 1895 placed the legislative branch of the government under republican control during the second half of his administration.

EXPLAINS NEW CHINESE BILL

WILL COMPEL PAYMENT OF HEAD TAX

Defects in Immigration Act Are Amended—Debate on Second Reading.

An interesting debate on the bill to amend the Chinese Immigration Act (which passed its third reading yesterday) took place in the House on June 16th, when Hon. Frank Oliver moved the second reading. Mr. Borden, the leader of the opposition, asked for a brief explanation, which Mr. Oliver gave as follows:

This bill is intended to cure two or three defects in the act as it stands at present. One of the amendments is to define the word "minor." There have been abuses under the act on account of there being no definition of that word, and people who are not properly entitled have secured exemption from the head tax. Another section provides for the punishment and deportation, on occasion, of Chinese who come into the country without payment of the head tax. It has been found in practice under the present law that if a Chinese succeeds in getting into the country without paying the head tax there is no means either of compelling him to pay or of deporting him because he has not paid. These are the principal amendments.

Motion agreed to, bill read the second time, and House went into committee thereon.

On section 2: Persons exempt from payment of entrance tax.

Mr. Foster: What change is made? Mr. Oliver: The principal changes of the bill occur in this section. Previously the act, in defining those who were exempt from the tax, spoke of children without prescribing that they must be minor children, and as a consequence persons who were not minors were securing admission free of the head tax. Evidently the intention of the act was to limit the exemption to minor children.

Mr. Foster: What is the limit of age? Mr. Oliver: The limit of the age of a minor is 21 years. Then, the other provision in the same section is to limit students to the age of 17. Formerly there was no limit to the age of students. Any person over 17 years of age, though he professes to be coming to attend some educational institution, must pay the head tax.

Mr. Foster: Why do you do that? Should not a man have the right to be a student if he is 18 years of age? Mr. Oliver: The difficulty, as I understand, is that the privilege was abused.

Mr. Foster: You have power to substantiate the person's age.

Mr. Oliver: It appears that there is a good deal of difficulty in dealing with the question, and it was thought advisable to draw the line considerably tighter than has been done in the past.

Mr. Gallier: There is a distinct objection on the part of the people at the coast to men attending the same school as small children. That is one of the chief objections. Men from 20 to 30 years of age were attending school and learning English with children of 7 and 8.

Mr. Foster: It appears pretty arbitrary for us to say that a man shall not be a student because he is over 17 years of age.

Mr. Gallier: We feel that way about it anyway.

Mr. R. L. Borden: Sub-paragraph 6 seems to be new. I do not see it in the original statute.

(Subject to such regulations as may from time to time be made by the governor in council) duly certified teachers.

Mr. Oliver: That is new also, but that is not important in the same sense as the other two are.

Mr. M. S. McCarthy: I asked the minister of the Interior (Mr. Oliver) on the 16th December, 1907, how many Chinese had come into British Columbia since the 15th January, 1907, and I was told that there were 1,325. Could the minister tell me, without consulting the department of immigration, if that number included minors? Do I understand that the figures that were given to me then were simply taken as the number of Chinese upon whom the head tax had been collected? From what I could gather from the explanation of the minister, the reason for introducing this legislation was that a minor should not be able to get in, under certain conditions, without paying the head tax.

Mr. Oliver: I cannot answer my hon. friend. Of course, he is aware that the administration of the head tax is under the department of trade and commerce, but it is administered by the department of customs. In the immigration department we have no knowledge of it. It would depend on how the question was framed. If it were a question as to how many Chinese came in it would include all Chinese. If it were only how many Chinese paid the head tax and would not include minors, students who were over 17 years of age, and other people who, although they were not minors, came in as the children of merchants and the wives and children of clergymen, etc.

Mr. M. S. McCarthy: I will read the question to the minister:

"I. How many Japanese, Hindus, or other Asiatics, respectively, have arrived in British Columbia since January 15th, 1907?"

"2. How many arrived there in each of the three years preceding said date?"

Would that include minors?

Mr. Oliver: I understand that it includes Japanese and Hindus as well as Chinese.

Mr. M. S. McCarthy: No, the answer was:

"Hon. Frank Oliver (minister of the Interior):

"1. Chinese, 1,325, of whom 1,152 remained in British Columbia; Japanese, 7,358, of whom 7,357 remained in British Columbia; Hindus, 2,046, of whom 2,045 remained in British Columbia."

Mr. Oliver: I would understand that never to include all Chinese whether they paid the head tax or not. That makes no distinction between those who paid the head tax and those who did not.

On section 4:

Mr. Herron: What certainty have you that these Chinamen are not liable to slip off the train at any place they desire to?

Mr. Oliver: The amendment provides that these people may pass in bond subject to regulations by the customs department, which apparently was not provided for before.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It is exactly the same as it was before except that you are enabling persons of Chinese origin to pass in transit from a port or place out of Canada to a port or place in Canada without the payment of a tax.

The statute at present permits them to pass from a port or place out of Canada to another port or place out of Canada as well. The minister is not providing by this any further restrictions than under the existing act.

Mr. Oliver: This section is evidently intended to apply to those who are entitled to come in without the payment of a tax.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It does not seem to me that it fulfills that intention.

Mr. Oliver: In looking over section 4, and in the light of the discussion which took place in the senate, the intention of the section would appear to be that the payment of the head tax may be deferred until a person of Chinese origin arrives at his destination in Canada. Instead of paying the tax at the port of entry he may be bonded through to his point of destination and the head tax paid there.

Mr. Ralph Smith: The object of this section is to give the particular province where a Chinaman lands the opportunity of collecting the 50 per cent. of the head tax to which the province is entitled. The complaint has been that hitherto British Columbia has been getting the advantage of the 50 per cent. of the tax while the particular Chinaman may be intended for another province. I should think this provision is fair to all the provinces.

Mr. Herron: Is there any provision by which our officer at a port where these people might land shall notify them in any way, or does a Chinaman travel as an ordinary passenger? Unless there is some way of following these people, I think it would be impossible to collect the tax at an ordinary port.

Mr. Oliver: The collection of the tax is in the hands of the customs officials. As my hon. friend will see, by this section it is intended that the travelling of a person of Chinese origin from the port of entry to his destination shall be under the regulation and supervision of the customs department, who would be responsible for the collection of the tax at the point of arrival.

Mr. R. L. Borden: If that is the intention it is not very apparent in the construction of the section. There is a provision in section 7 of the act that every person of Chinese origin, irrespective of allegiance, shall pay into the consolidated fund of Canada, on entering Canada, at the port of entry, a tax of $500, with certain exceptions.

Then there is a provision in section 19 that persons of Chinese origin may pass through Canada without paying the tax under regulations to be made by the governor in council. That is proposed to be amended by this section.

Section 7 provides that the $500 shall be paid at the port of entry. There is no provision in this section that it shall be paid anywhere else. It simply makes provision for the passage through Canada of persons of Chinese origin. If it means that the tax is to be paid at the place at which the immigrant eventually arrives, I think it should say so; otherwise it seems to me that it would make all those people who pass through Canada as liable to the $500 tax as those who enter Canada for some place in Canada, although they do not have to pay the tax in the first instance.

That is the interpretation the hon. be to make a slight amendment to section 19 so far as immigrants are concerned who are destined to some place in Canada. If it bears that interpretation in the one case, it should bear it in the other. It seems to me that an endeavor has been made to mix up in the same section two matters which should be kept apart. The better way would be to make a slight amendment to section 7, providing that the payment might be made at the port of entry or at some other port, and to leave section 19 as it is.

Mr. Ralph Smith: I understand that under the regulations provided by order in council the transportation company has to give security to the government to the amount of $500 for every Chinaman transported to any point within or outside of Canada. For instance, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company must arrange with the government collector in Vancouver for the transportation, and must be actually responsible for the landing of these people according to the terms of the arrangement; and when they land in Ontario or anywhere else, the railway company is responsible until the Dominion official in Ontario notifies the Dominion official at Vancouver that the $500 tax is paid.

Mr. R. L. Borden: I am not finding any fault with the section as it is understood by my hon. friend, but I am pointing out that the amendment as framed does not carry out very well, and I am endeavoring to suggest a method of carrying out the intention. It is needless to say that any arrangement between this government and the Canadian Pacific railway or any other railway company cannot override the statute.

Mr. Ralph Smith: What I mean to say is that the bonding privilege at the present time is carried out exactly as I have said.

Mr. Oliver: I think perhaps it would be just as well to satisfy ourselves that the section is right, so that I think we had better let it stand for further consideration.

Section 4 allowed to stand.

On section 5:

Mr. Herron: The penalty in this section is a fine of $500 or 12 months' imprisonment. The fine is not proportionate to the imprisonment for a Chinaman. He would stay in jail for some years for $500.

Mr. Oliver: There is no provision in the existing law enabling us to deal with a person of Chinese origin who had been successful in getting into the country without paying the tax. He could not pay the head tax and he could not be deported. This provides for his deportation.

Mr. R. L. Borden: There has been some change in the language but there apparently is no intention of changing the meaning except in the respect the minister has mentioned.

Mr. Oliver: I see that a certain provision contained in the original section 27, and which seems to be very necessary, must have been left out by mistake. Section 27 provides a penalty for Chinese coming in contrary to the law and also a penalty in the case of every one who wilfully aids or abets such persons coming in. As we are letting section 4 stand, I think it would be well to let section 5 stand also so as to rectify this omission.

Section 5 allowed to stand.

On section 6: Enforcement of deportation.

Mr. R. L. Borden: Would it not be better to introduce this section as section 27a, as it would seem to more naturally follow the provisions of section 27 of the original act?

Mr. Oliver: If my hon. friend will put it into shape that way, I will accept it.

Mr. Lake: Has the minister any information as to how many immigrant Chinese have come in from the 15th of December last, when the answer was given to my hon. friend from Calgary to the present time?

Mr. Oliver: I have no information. The department of trade and commerce has control over Chinese immigration, but the act is administered by the customs department. The interior department has nothing to do with it.

Mr. Lake: The immigration department does not include Chinese in its returns?

Mr. Oliver: No.

Progress was then reported.

LABOR UNION CASE

BEFORE FULL COURT

Judgment Has Been Reserved

in Grahame vs. Knott.

Grahame vs. Knott was the appeal which came up before the Full Court yesterday afternoon. Harold Robertson appeared on behalf of the appellant, Knott, with R. T. Elliott, K.C., for Grahame.

Mr. Robertson outlined the case, showing that the defendants were all sued personally, and in their official capacity.

Grahame, who came here from Calgary, went to work with Bauthier, when one of the defendants tried to get him to join the union. There were certain regulations in joining the union which plaintiff failed to comply with. He could not produce a travelling card, no two members of the union were willing to vouch for him, and he refused to take the regular test which was the third method of joining.

Judge Lampman, before whom the case was tried, decided against the union. He, however, thought it was a reasonable demand that the union had made.

The union officials wrote a letter to Bauthier, practically demanding the dismissal of Grahame.

Chief Justice: That is just where the union went a step too far. The man Grahame had as much right to earn a living as the members of the union.

Mr. Robertson, however, proposed to show through a judgment of the Privy Council the union had a lawful right to refuse to work with Grahame.

Chief Justice: Would they have a right to do the same, giving as a reason that the man was a Roman Catholic?

Mr. Robertson: No, I do not think so.

Mr. Robertson: The union has a right to strike or threaten to strike to raise their wages, but not to secure the dismissal of non-union men.

Mr. Robertson: I propose to show a number of decisions both English and American, to bear out my decision.

Chief Justice: If you ransack the Statutes of the Union you can find any kind of decision you look for. There the judges are elected and the judgments are political in nature.

Mr. Robertson: I rest my case on English authorities, not American. He then quoted from a judgment of Lord Watson, who deplored the quarrels among workmen, but stated that the men in a similar case acted within their rights. It was to the advantage of the employer to know that the men would not work with others.

Mr. Robertson showed that if the men had gone on strike without notifying the employer they would have injured the employer.

Chief Justice: Is it not a fact that you have combined together and forced this man out of his employment?

Mr. Robertson: It had that effect, but the law lords have held that that is a perfectly justifiable cause of action.

Mr. Robertson further quoted an English authority to show that a man had a right to freedom of speech, and that a man is not obliged to justify his acts or words just because they happen to injure someone. Competition often presses very hard on individuals, yet it is perfectly lawful. A man is justified in shutting out what he considers unfair competition.

The Chief Justice intimated that it was not necessary to read all the authorities as it was a very important matter and judgment would be reserved. They could look up the references if a list were handed in.

Mr. Elliott then commenced his address.

Mr. Justice Clement: If the man had been engaged for a week and the union had secured the dismissal before the end of that time there would have been a breach of contract.

Chief Justice: Do you contend that the union has no right to objecting to work with non-union men?

Mr. Elliott: No; it is not within the scope of a trade union to do so and if they do so it is punishable by law. The men have a right to leave but they have no right to molest anyone. An act done by an individual is often different to that by a body of men acting in concert.

Mr. Elliott argued that there was really a contract, as the employer was satisfied with his work and would not have dismissed him had it not been for the interference of the union.

The Chief Justice said there was a doubt in his mind just how far a man might legally go in interfering with the employment of another. The rights of the union man and the non-union man is exactly the same. A non-union man could inform an employer if he was going to leave, and the reasons therefor.

Mr. Robertson showed that even where a man lost the certainty of employment there was no breach of contract.

Judgment was reserved.

ABOUT "STATUTORY OBLIGATIONS."

The Colonist says the Times seems to occupy very much the same ground as it does upon the water question. The assumption is absolutely wrong. The Colonist holds that the city should immediately call upon the Esquimalt Water Works Company to fulfill its "statutory obligations," which may be interpreted as meaning that the municipality should enter into a contract to buy a certain minimum quantity of water by the gallon from the Esquimalt Water Works Company for a term of years. The position of our contemporary is that the necessity is so urgent no time should be lost in seeking a new source of supply. We deny the latter proposition on the authority of one of the most eminent engineers upon the continent, whose opinions we have quoted in order that the people of Victoria might gain a thorough insight into the matter—and whose views the Colonist dare not publish because they are so directly at variance with its own and with its objects.

We have already pointed out how utterly inconsistent it is to advocate the purchase of water by meter from the Esquimalt Water Works Company and the sale of the same to householders at a flat rate, without any restrictions whatever as to quantity. If we are going to buy water by the gallon, we must certainly place meters upon every consumer and sell it by the gallon, or we must speedily reduce our water-works department to a state of bankruptcy. The fact has been demonstrated by experiment that where a flat rate is in force the consumer on the average uses from four to six times the quantity of water that he would if his service were metered. That is a result of an investigation and comparison recently made in the city of Vancouver. It has been said on behalf of the proposal to buy water from the Esquimalt Water Works Company at a rate of six cents that we would be selling it to the consumer at a profit of so many cents. But that argument must necessarily imply the metering of every service in the city, otherwise the householder who is given a flat rate will consume from four to six times as much water as he pays for, with the result that the city will be paying not at the rate of six cents a gallon for the water it buys, but at the rate of at least four times six cents. So that the positions of the Colonist on the question are utterly inconsistent with each other. If we buy water by the gallon, we must sell it by the gallon also. A service metered at one end must be regulated by meters at the other end.

We have said that the chief business object of the Esquimalt Water Works Company appeared to be the goal suggested by the Colonist: That is, it aimed to place the city in the position of calling upon it to fulfill its "statutory obligation." If the city issued the call, it would at the same time incur the obligation of taking a certain minimum quantity of water at a certain rate for a certain term of years. Possibly only in the summer months would any water whatever be required. The Elk Lake system, burdened though it be by disabilities (which will be remedied by next summer) meets all requirements during the winter season. But if the Esquimalt Water Works Company were "fulfilling its statutory obligations" the city would have to accept and pay for a minimum quantity of water in winter and the maximum quantity consumed in summer. There would be no compensatory balance in the accounts. Hence it is apparent that such an arrangement would be eminently satisfactory from the point of view of the company. There are very good reasons why it would welcome an order to "fulfill its statutory obligations."

GROVER CLEVELAND.

There is now no living ex-President of the United States. Grover Cleveland, twice elected to the chair of chief magistrate, and once defeated as the representative of the Democratic party, has been gathered to his fathers. There were, from the point of view of Canadians, just three outstanding features in the career of Mr. Cleveland as a public man. He placed an extinguisher upon the aspirations of one great American politician, James G. Blaine; he was a strenuous and consistent advocate of tariff reform; and he caused a sensation throughout the entire civilized world by espousing the cause of the rotten republic of Venezuela and issuing a note of defiance to Great Britain which, in less enlightened times, must have resulted in another fratricidal war between the two English-speaking powers.

Cleveland's defeat of Blaine, one of the ablest leaders of the Republican party, is said to have broken the heart of that brilliant but unscrupulous politician. It practically brought his career as a force in federal politics to an end. During President Cleveland's last official term the movement in favor of tariff reform reached its maximum of strength. The depression which followed his election practically put a quietus upon this movement.

Confronted by a hostile legislature, the president simply could not bring into effect the reforms he advocated. The Republicans were astute enough to take advantage of the dull times as a cogent argument in favor of protection without limit. Bryan and Parker were handicapped by the unfortunate experience of the country under Cleveland, and McKinley and Roosevelt benefited from it. The Democratic party is still suffering from the consequences of these untoward events, notwithstanding the logic of the business situation to-day, which demonstrates that protection cannot avert a depression in business or ward off the evil effects of booms and over-speculation. The withdrawal of President Roosevelt from public life, coupled with a practical illustration of the truth that there is no virtue in Dingleyism as a shield against dull times, might have given Mr. Bryan the final opportunity of his lifetime to retrieve the fortunes of the Democratic party; but his own erratic public career as a pursuer of economic wills-of-the-wisp seems to preclude any possibility of success against Taft. The successor of Grover Cleveland has not yet appeared.

Notwithstanding the one firebrand feature of ex-President Cleveland's public career, he was a most estimable man and highly regarded even in the country to which he gave great cause of offence. His death will be as sincerely lamented in Great Britain and in Great Britain's possessions as in the United States.

OUR DEBT TO CLEVELAND.

The death of ex-President Cleveland recalls the Venezuela incident in which he displayed such a conspicuous and such a discreditable part. But for the unflinching diplomacy and calm, experienced statesmanship of the men then in charge of British affairs the consequences of Cleveland's boorish ultimatum might have been serious. There were in it possibilities of complications not only between Great Britain and the United States, but between the United States and Europe. The powers of the world were then in no mood to tolerate the arrogance of Venezuela and other South American republics, even if backed by the might of the great North American republic. But the insulting demand of Cleveland was courteously considered and the case submitted to arbitration, with the result that the position of Britain was sustained in every particular. The incident, because of the toleration of British statesmen, marked the turning-point in the relations between the greatest of world-powers and the chief American nation. Cleveland was the last of the tail-twisters. The probabilities are that he has left no successor. A new spirit has entered into the American people. They are willing to follow without question leaders who make increasing cordiality with Great Britain the vital principle of their official conduct. Not so very long ago any such disposition would have been fatal to the career of any public man. So that, after all, we owe a great deal to the man who was chiefly responsible for the Venezuela ultimatum. May he rest in peace.

Ellen Purvers Smith indites a timely protest against unwarranted assertion and insults leveled by a certain publication at industrious and law-abiding citizens of the community. We sympathize with the feelings of our colored friends in the matter, but the letter is just a trifle too robust in its expressions for publication.

A Conservative newspaper is compelled to admit that the case of Major Hodgins underwent "utter and pitiable collapse" under investigation. So ends the Colonist's pet scandal. It has gone the way of many attempts to convince the people of Canada that their affairs have not been honestly administered by the Laurier government.

Apparently if the Colonist had been able to present its readers with a picture of some one connected with that paper or the Victoria Transfer Company as the man who started the recent series of fires its cup of happiness would have been full.

We do not believe the statement that the Colonist has applied to the Carnegie Hero Fund for medals for its fire discoverers.

Ten dollars in cash and your picture in the paper is what the Colonist pays for advertising material. Don't all rush at once.

To the Editor:—Will you kindly allow me to call the attention of the Street Railway Company to the fact that the flat wheels on at least two of the cars on Fort Street are rest-disturbers, and, consequently, come under the head of common nuisances. Also that the S. W. corner of Fort and Douglas streets is made the repository of paper, straw and all sorts of rubbish, left to be carried away by the wind, instead of being burned or carried away by the scavengers. Had the fire department applied his match to the pile he would have done the city some service.

WALKER GETS A NEW TRIAL

JUDGMENT IS NOT A UNANIMOUS ONE

Mr Justice Morrison Dissents From Full Court Finding.

The case which attracted most attention when the Full Court assembled to deliver its judgment this morning was that of Rex. versus Walker, and in that, two of the judges decided that a new trial should be granted, but from this Mr. Justice Morrison dissented.

When the judges were seated on the bench the chief justice announced that they had not prepared any lengthy judgments, but that they thought it better to give their decisions now than to reserve them until after the vacation which was just about to commence. The first case called was that of Rex. versus Walker and in that the chief justice stated that a new trial would be granted. Mr. Justice Clement had prepared a judgment dealing with the case and with the counsel. "I regret very much that I do not concur in the view of the case entertained by the majority of the court. However, it may be of public advantage if the case should go to the Supreme Court of Canada, as then the uncertainty now must be finally settled as the only instance in which an appeal will lay is where the court is not unanimous as in this case."

Mr. Justice Morrison then read a dissenting judgment as follows: The indictment against the accused upon which he stood his trial before His Honor Judge Cane contained two counts, viz:

1. That G. A. W., on or about the month of February, 1907, at the city of Vancouver, in the Province of British Columbia, did counsel or procure one B. B. of the said city, a single woman, to commit an indictable offence to wit: The said B. B. then being with child by the said G. A. W., to unlawfully procure the miscarriage of the said B. B.

2. That the said G. A. W., at the city of Vancouver, in the month of February, 1907, did unlawfully supply one B. B., a single woman then being with child by the said G. A. W., with a certain drug to wit "ergot," knowing that the same was intended to be unlawfully used by the said B. B. with intent to procure a miscarriage.

Upon this indictment the accused was tried and convicted on both counts. The learned judge reserved the three questions following for the opinion of this court pursuant to section 1014 of the Criminal Code 1897, viz:

1. Is counselling a person in Canada as charged herein against the accused to submit in the United States to the performance upon said person in the United States of an abortion by an instrument or other means, an offence against the criminal law of Canada the person counselling and the person counselled being in Canada when such counsel was given?

2. Is there any corroboration whatever of the evidence given in this case by the woman to whom the drug "ergot" is alleged to have been supplied and upon whom the abortion is alleged to have been performed, she being a consenting party to the taking of said drug and the performance of said abortion?

3. Was sufficient evidence given that any drug or noxious thing was supplied to said woman by the accused with intent to procure her miscarriage?

At the same time leave was given the accused to apply to this court for a new trial pursuant to section 1021 of the code on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence.

The facts as substantially found by the learned trial judge were that B. B. was with child by the accused to the knowledge of the accused and that whilst in a critical stage of pregnancy he advised certain treatment and administered as well ergot pills to her with a criminal intent. These expedients having failed he then advised her to go to a certain town within the province to have a criminal operation performed upon her. She refused to do so. There is nothing in the proceedings before us to preclude the opinion that the learned trial judge relied upon this evidence in finding the accused guilty on the first count of the indictment. That the criminal act was not committed as counselled or at all does not avail the accused. When a person with criminal intent solicits or advises another to commit an offence which the other does not commit at all, such soliciting by whatever means it is attempted is an act done and that act done is punishable by indictment. It would be a slander upon the law to suppose that such an offence is not indictable. Lord Kenyon in Rex. vs. Higgins, 2 East 17.

That brings me to that part of the evidence which relates to what happened in the United States following the counselling to proceed there for the purpose of counselling a criminal act, which was shortly after the previous counselling.

It is indubitable that the laws of Canada can have no force or effect proprio vigore in a foreign country. In this case the United States. It has therefore been urged upon us that the act counselled to be committed abroad is as if it had not been committed and consequently all the evidence relating to those incidents is inadmissible, and its reception has brought about an illegal trial, a conviction arising out of which cannot stand.

With deference I submit having regard to this particular trial, this evidence is relevant and admissible as going to prove guilty knowledge or intention as well as to show the woman's state of mind and to confirm or corroborate if necessary the proof already given that she was conscious by the accused. It is not inadmissible by reason of its having a tendency to prove or to create a suspicion of a subsequent felony. Although conduct on other occasions is never admissible to prove the actus reus it is admissible to prove the mens rea. Rex. vs. Geering (1849) 18 L. J. M. C. 215.

And Bayley J., in Rex. vs. Ellis (1828) 6 B. and C. 145, said: "I think it was in the discretion of the judge to confine the prosecution to the proof of one felony or to allow him to give evidence to other acts which were all part of one entire transaction. All the evidence in this case tended to show that the prisoner was guilty of the felony charged in the indictment."

A transaction in the criminal sense may be a continuous one extending over a long period. In such case any words or statements accompanying such continuous acts are admissible as part of it.—Rowan vs. Haigh (1824), 2 Buis 99.

Then coming to the second question dealing with corroboration: Upon a trial on a charge of this kind the law does not require corroboration. The conviction here cannot be quashed for want of corroboration. There is a clear distinction between corroboration required by law and that required as a rule of prudence or procedure. In the former case a conviction on uncorroborated evidence would be illegal, whereas in the latter case it would be perfectly valid.—R. vs. Stubbs (1855), 25 L. J. M. C. 16.

But counsel contend that inasmuch as the learned judge stated he had found corroboration that he would not have convicted in its absence, and he proceeded to show that there is no evidence of corroboration. The transcript of the discussion of the question of corroboration between counsel and the learned judge does not sustain this contention. This is the way the discussion terminated.

Court—I am not going to put corroboration in there, because the law does not require it.

Mr. Martin—But you have required it.

Court—I have not, but I have found it for my own satisfaction here, which makes it stronger in my mind. I will put in "corroboration," but I will tell you I do not think it should be there at all.

As to the third question it has been held that if a man who believes a thing to be a noxious drug and induces a woman to take it, he is guilty of attempting to procure abortion by procurement although as a matter of fact the commission of the offence by the woman is impossible in the manner proposed.

Dealing with the application for a new trial we must apply the same principles as are involved in a similar application in civil cases. The reason it seems is that criminal cases are tried by courts whose normal jurisdiction is civil and therefore the prisoner is entitled to the benefit of the civil procedure.

The cases should be very rare indeed. I can conceive few cases where I would do it myself, where I would sanction or encourage an appeal on questions of fact which had been fully thought out and examined by the court of first instance. Applying that principle to this case how can it be successfully contended that the learned judge convicted against the weight of evidence. Lord Ashbourne in Guildhall vs. General Steam Nav. Co., 1908 A. C. 161.

Though on the whole case as submitted I think it should be referred back to the trial judge for amendment or reargument under section 1017 sub. sec. 3, and whilst I think that question (1) is hypothetical and question (2) if answered in the negative would not carry the matter any further, being in no way binding on the judge, nor affecting in any way the validity of the conviction, yet I venture to think that the authorities sustain the contention that the act done of counselling is an indictable offence by common law regardless of where the act counselled is to be committed.

The King vs. Cole 5 C.C.C. 320 is authority for this that the common law jurisdiction as to crime is still operative even in cases provided by the code unless there is such repugnancy as to give prevalence to the latter law.

In Stephens' Criminal Law of England the learned author deals with counselling as embodied in question (1) opposing his own doubt to the authorities to the extent with a scrupulousness which if given the force of law would do less than justice. The uncertainty raised or views there expressed seem to have been adopted by later writers, but as has been said, text books are written en suite and a repetition by subsequent authors does not necessarily make those dicta law.

Subject to these observations I would answer all the questions submitted in the affirmative, and as to the application for a new trial I would refuse it. I feel the more inclined to do so having regard to section 1019 of the code, as well as to the power reposed in the minister of justice to review the whole proceedings in case of a conviction and sentence.

The court at any rate should be most careful not to substitute themselves for the jury nor to be astute to invade the functions of a trial judge acting as a judge and jury.

Mr. Justice Clement in giving his reasons for ordering a new trial, said that Judge Kane had given leave to apply for a new trial, and the matter of the weight of evidence it was not necessary to discuss. It appeared that the accused had counselled the girl, Blanch Bond, to submit to an operation in Nanaimo. The judge did not, however, seem to have found on that count. He had reserved a case on certain points and these must be accepted as affecting the decision and not as academic questions.

The first question which was put was whether or not the counselling of the committing of an abortion in the United States was contrary to the laws of Canada. He answered this question in the negative and stated that a number of the cases which had been quoted did not touch the one before the court. This one stood alone in that the crime counselled was to have been committed in the United States and therefore could not have been against the peace of Our Lord the King. He found a case in England which had not been quoted him by counsel which bore on this case. In that the hypothetical case was propounded as follows:

"If A, in England, incites to commit a robbery in France is he guilty of a crime?" The learned judge who tried the case decided not. In the matter under consideration there is a statute which governs but not in any other crime. It was stated that the law of England had nothing to do with the law of France and no matter how highly desirable it might be between civilized countries to have a law which would cover such cases, this was a matter for legislation and not for the courts.

Mr. Justice Clement said he had also found another ruling which said that it is no offence under English law to conspire against the people in another country. This matter had been much argued but the consensus of opinion was that nothing done outside of the country can be an offence against our law unless the case is covered by legislation.

Continuing, the learned judge said that the ergot incident was a long story, but there was a serious question as to the admissibility of certain evidence. If there was a miscarriage it was their duty to direct a new one and he so directed in this case on both charges. He answered each of the questions propounded in the negative. The chief justice concurred.

ADVERTISING VICTORIA CITY

AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN FROM TOURIST ROOMS

Extensive Publicity Will Be Given to This Place.

Although the Tourist Association this season is getting out a nice line of booklets, etc., for distribution, as in former years, an entirely new policy is being adopted with regard to their circulation. Hitherto a large mailing list has been used, compiled largely from inquiries received as well as of ticket agents and similar officials.

This year the association is making a new departure. The newspaper and periodical press in the Old Land, in Eastern Canada, on the prairies and in the Middle West and Northwest of the United States, is being employed, catchy advertisements being inserted and the literature of the association being offered in these advertisements for the cost of postage. The executive have more in view than the economic of postal expenses which this will effect, being desirous particularly of eliminating the idly curious correspondent who is always glad to get something for nothing, and who values it correspondingly when he obtains it. The executive believe that if a man sends a small amount, even if only five cents, he will value the booklets more than if he obtained them for nothing.

The campaign from Minneapolis west is being opened this week, and is being followed for a month in order to divert as far as possible the tide of school. These advertisements will appear in the hottest parts of Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Minnesota, etc., at a season when the weather is unbearably warm and when the cool breezes of the Pacific are longingly desired by residents there.

The American cities and towns in which the campaign is being carried on, are, in Spokane, North Yakima, Walla Walla, Lewiston, Pendleton, Portland, Baker City, Boise, Salt Lake City, Denver, Anaconda and Minneapolis.

Through the mediums employed in these places there will be reached during the four weeks' campaign over a million and a half of readers, and the whole Northwest will be covered from the Mississippi to the coast.

In England the Standard of Empire "Canada" and the "Colonizer" are being employed, and through the combined mediums upwards of a million readers will be reached. In Canada the eastern centre of Montreal and Toronto will be explored, while to further stimulate the travel, which the cheap excursion rates to the coast will foster, newspaper advertising will be carried in Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon. These advertisements will synchronize with the cheap excursions now on to the coast, and should be especially effective in the case of good crops.

The distribution of literature at the series of fairs which open with the Dominion exhibition in Calgary in a few days, has been kindly undertaken by the provincial government, which is making a display at all the bigger fairs from that point to Winnipeg.

CANADA EVER.

A New Patriotic Song Composed by Native Born Canadian.

The words of a new Canadian patriotic song called "Canada Ever," which has recently been published in London and New York. The music is by Miss Laura G. Lemon (Mrs. Henry Heath). This lady lived for several years in Winnipeg, but is now a resident of London, where her compositions have been received with great applause and she has been the recipient of many flattering letters from the musical people.

The song, "Canada Ever," was first sung last year during the colonial conference at London, and is to be sung in July of this year at the Tercentenary celebrations at Quebec. It is also being taught in many of the public schools in eastern Canada to be sung on patriotic occasions. Miss Lemon is perhaps best known to musical people from her composition called "My Ain Folk," which has been a great favorite with vocalists for some time past. Miss Lemon also received a first prize which was recently awarded at Edinburgh for the best Scottish song. This lady was born in Guelph, Ontario, and since her residence in London, has shown herself to be a violinist, pianist and vocalist, also composer of more than ordinary ability. A number of her songs have been published by one of the leading publishers in London, one particularly being a very taking song for children, entitled "Little Teddy Bear, Good Night." The following are the words of "Canada Ever."

Land of the maple! Lov'd home of the Free!
Far spread thy fruitful plains from sea to sea;
Forest and torrent thy praise thunder forth—
Canada, Homeland, fair Queen of the North!
Clasped on thy loyal breast,
Sweet blossoms fondly rest—
Heather and shamrock, sweet hly and rose,
Born of fam'd races thou,
Ready thou standest now
Empire, Dominion to guard from all foes.
"Canada ever!"
Our watchword still shall be:
God keep thee, native land,
Glorious, loyal, free!

Pure moonlight gleaming on wide inland sea,
Pictures the home life most dear unto thee:
Splendor of sunshine on peaks soaring
Symbols thy glory in years drawing nigh.
Heroes thy race of yore,
Heroes now, evermore;
Laurels unfading are twin'd round thy name!
Heav'n grant us peace, we pray;
Yet, at the call to fray
We will prove worthy our lov'd Country's fame!
"Canada ever!"
Our watchword still shall be:
God keep thee, native land,
Glorious, loyal, free!

There are always 1,500,000 people afloat on the seas of the world.

THE NEW GRAND.

Popular Theatre Draws Big Crowd in Spite of Counter Attractions.

Despite the big counter attractions of the last two nights at the park, Manager Jamieson has been doing big business at the New Grand with a splendid show. William Seybini and Jennetta Grovini appear to have several good acts rolled into one, and they are equally clever in all of the features which include acrobatic work, juggling, tumbling and acrobatic trick bicycling on both ordinary wheels and the old fashioned high wheel. Mme. Grovini is a very powerful woman and handles Selbini much as LeVeon handled Cross last week. The Fredericka Raymond trio, including besides the star, who is a good soprano, Paul Fisher, tenor, and Elice Ormonot, baritone, present an operatic sketch entitled "The Knights of Old," introducing a number of high class selections. The act compares favorably with others of the kind that have been here and is beautifully set with special scenery. Leo Filler, Russian boy violinist, is a fine player and is making a big hit. Black and Miller, a novelty knock-about acrobats, have a clever and amusing turn, and Bert Jamieson in a singing and dancing turn is well received, being an exceptionally clever buck and wing dancer. Thomas Price sings the illustrated song, "The Tale the Church Bells Told." New moving pictures entitled "Modern Sculptors" and "Uncle Bill's Bull," and the orchestra plays "Enchantment" by Hermann, as an overture.

VICTORIA YACHT CLUB MAY BUILD CHALLENGER

Foundations of New Club-House Laid—Motor Race Postponed.

There is considerable excitement in yachting circles in this city. The foundations of the new club house have been laid and the building will be ready for occupation in about a month. This looks like business.

The motor boat committee postponed their races from Saturday next in order not to clash with the J. B. A. A. regatta, but they will be held in the near future, and the delay will give an opportunity for more to enter than would have been the case if they had been held this week.

There is also a whisper going around among the members that a challenger will be built to enter for the Dunsmuir cup competition next year. This, it is thought, is quite feasible. There are more people interested in yachting to-day than have been for a number of years, and among them are a number of new men who are very enthusiastic. That Victoria should have a challenger is generally conceded and the probability is that steps will be taken in the near future to make preparations with a view of lifting the cup for next season. It is said that there are several competent designers in this city who will build a boat that would easily out-sail either the Spirit or the Alexandra.

done in days gone by under even less auspicious circumstances. Westminster has a good team, but so has Victoria, and after their short rest they will be in better shape than ever. It is important that even if they cannot win, that the locals shall make a better showing than some of the Vancouver teams have done this season.

GENERAL NOTES.

Members of the golf club are again reminded that the annual general meeting of the club will be held on July 8th, and that notices of proposed changes in the constitution must be posted at least fourteen days prior to that date in the club house. Nominations for officers or committeemen must be posted in the club house one week prior to the meeting with the names of the movers and seconders attached. On July 4th the local ball team will assist in celebrating at Port Angeles. A fine steamer service has been arranged and no doubt a large number of fans will journey to Angeles to take in the sports and see the ball game. The steamer Whatcom will leave at 8:30 a. m. and 12:30 at noon, returning will leave Angeles at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. The Chippewa will make a special trip, leaving Victoria at 2 p. m. and returning at 6 p. m. Owing to the excitement at the J. B. A. A. over the sending of the crews to Lake Washington, little has been done in the matter of swimming. A large number of entries have been received, however, and the club will commence work in a few days.

The J. B. A. A. crews leave for Seattle on Tuesday next, taking their shells on their backs. It is not expected that they will have to crawl into them. Findlay's athletes are looking well and should prove winners in some of the events at Vancouver on Dominion Day.

PERSONATES OFFICER AND LANDS IN JAIL

Frank Clayton's Method of Making Easy Money Leads to His Arrest.

Frank Clayton went up against the wrong proposition when he undertook to impersonate a Victoria detective in search of a stolen horse and rig and the result was that he landed in jail. The scene of Clayton's attempt was Lady Smith and his object in making it was to secure a little easy money. To secure this he did not hesitate to forge the name of Chief Langley to an order for $41. It was due to the shrewdness of R. J. Trembath, manager of Simon Leiser's store at Ladysmith that the police were enabled to capture the man. He accepted the order as good and then notified the police of his suspicions, which later events proved were correct.

On Saturday night last Clayton looked up Mr. Trembath in the store at Ladysmith and told him that he was a member of the Victoria detective force and that he was out following up a man who had stolen a horse and buggy but had run short of cash. He would be very much obliged if Mr. Trembath would cash an order for $41 purporting to be signed by Chief Langley.

The man's story appeared fishy but the manager agreed to grant his request and served him with $11 worth of goods and gave him $30 in cash. With glad heart Clayton left the Leiser store but his rejoicing was cut short for as soon as he left Mr. Trembath reported the matter to the police and Clayton's arrest followed.

A request was sent to Chief Langley to go up to Ladysmith to give evidence in the case and the chief had arranged to make the trip to-day. Yesterday, however, Clayton pleaded guilty, so it was not necessary for the chief to go.

SAYS MAJORITY MUST RULE

STRIKING EDITORIAL
IN ONTARIO PAPER

Rapidly Developing Sentiment
That Obstruction Anomaly
Must Be Ended.

Majority rule is the essence of responsible government. No system of popular government has yet been found possible save on the principle that the majority of the people should direct the course of public affairs.

Nor is it conceivable that a system of responsible government could exist, founded on any other principle. The people of a country are rarely or never unanimous in support of a line of policy. Commonly, if not always, there is a part or portion or party of the people who favor one line and another part who favor a different mode of procedure. One or other of these differing parties must rule. Under responsible government the larger party decides which course the national affairs shall pursue. Under irresponsible government the smaller party determines the course and whether the smaller party comprises a king and a circle of favorites, or a body of popularly selected representatives, so long as they are the smaller party and so long as they dominate the course of public affairs, the country has irresponsible government.

Parliament is the agent of the people. The majority of the members hold the views of the majority of the electors of the country and their business is to incorporate those views into the conduct of the public business. If they do not do so they are unfaithful to the trust reposed in them. If they are prevented from doing so the will of the majority is frustrated and responsible government to that extent is destroyed. It is no defence to say that those who prevent a parliamentary majority from carrying out the will of the people are representing the will of the popular minority. This may be true. But it is also true that the minority is a minority, and for that reason has no license to prevent the purpose of the majority, nor to seek to replace the policy of the majority by its own policy.

The Canadian people are to-day faced with the necessity of reasserting and defending the principle of majority rule if they wish to maintain their system of responsible government. Parliament has been in session since November last. The order paper has been filled with business of surpassing importance. Yet that business has not been transacted. Much of it has not been touched. Much more of it has been cursorily considered and pushed aside. Day after day, week after week, month after month, progress with business has been prevented by protracted discussions on subjects of minor importance and issues which have been thoroughly threshed out in preceding sessions. That the government was anxious to get along with business has been abundantly manifest from the persistent pressure brought to bear to hurry on the work, from the daily appearance of important items on the order paper, and during the last week by the adoption of morning sessions of the House, and the proposal to sit also on Wednesday evening. Yet they have been persistently and consistently prevented from doing so by orations on about every conceivable subject on which a speech could be strung together. The irresistible conclusion is that for some reason, be that what it may, the opposition have resolved to prevent so far as they can do so, the will of the majority of the people being carried into effect.

Unfortunately, our parliamentary system gives the opposition this power. The House possesses no means of closing a debate, however puerile or irrelevant, in order to take up business, however pressing or important. Discussion may be started on any subject and continued for any length of time to the paralysis of business. This broad liberty offers the opportunity to turn a parliamentary session into a long-distance talking race; and this opportunity the opposition have seized and worked to the limit. The public service throughout the country is handicapped and partially paralyzed for lack of money, and projects of immense public concern remain untouched on the order paper. Yet the talk goes on, the business does not go on. The position now is that should the House sit until next November and devote every hour strictly to public business, the time as spent would be no longer than the time that has already been wasted. That the session will continue so long is not to be supposed. The upshot is, therefore, that after wasting six months in talk the business of the country will be crammed through in a few weeks at the close of a long and strenuous session, by weary and uninterested members.

There is a pronounced and rapidly developing sentiment, both in parliament and in the country, that this anomaly should be ended. It is not permitted in the British parliament nor the United States house of representatives. In both those Houses effective measures have been taken to stop the flow of language and expedite the course of business. Unless the Canadian people are to abandon the principle of majority rule and turn over the direction of their affairs to a party they have declined to place in power, similar measures must be taken by the Canadian parliament. The business of parliament is to transact the business of the people. The majority in parliament will be negligent of the duty imposed upon them if they continue to permit that duty to be frustrated by the minority.—The Advertiser, London, Ont.

—For the week ending yesterday the Victoria bank clearings amounted to $1,924,104.

THE GUILF OF THE SERPENT.

In the editorial columns of the Chicago Daily Tribune of June 18th, may be found the following:

The New York Sun publishes the following dispatch:

"Victoria, B. C., June 8.—From all parts of Interior British Columbia reports are received of the unusual number of grizzlies being seen this season, and numerous encounters with them have been chronicled during the last few weeks. To kill a grizzly weighing nearly 800 pounds with a 32 calibre revolver is something that few men boast of. It was the unusual feat which Dr. A. McKay Jordan accomplished while visiting some mining claims in which he is interested near Jedway, Queen Charlotte Islands. The eight small bullet holes in the bear's skin are the proofs of his unique experience."

In another issue we expect to read something like this:

"Choromantis, Rhodesia, May 10.—Indications at present are unmistakable for the largest crop of man eating lions in the history of the sport. Col. Villiers Carey-Smythe bagged four brace before breakfast yesterday. The largest specimen leaped on the intrepid sportsman from a banyan tree, but by miscalculation landed on the hyphen and was impaled. Col. Carey-Smythe will send the pelt to President Roosevelt."

Extraordinary sporting opportunities at the antipodes or farther, we predict with great assurance, will continue to find publicity through the columns of the Sun until a certain distinguished citizen has packed his trunk and left, temporarily at least, the sphere of his present activities.

mill, built recently at a large sum of money, has not turned a saw yet.
The Cheminus mill closed on Thursday.

While running, the Red Fir were cutting from 95,000 to 110,000 feet of lumber a day, and Manager Hardy says that he will have ample stock on hand
with which to supply the local trade.

LAND ACQUIRED FOR

NEW TURKISH BATHS

Purchase Has Been Made of

Property on Fort

Street.

Through a real estate deal which took place a few days ago land situated on the south side of Fort Street, east of Blanche

and street, has been acquired for the purpose of the erection of up-to-date Turkish baths, which, when the building is completed, are to be equipped in the most possible manner and made suitable for the best class of trade.

The purchaser of the property is Mr.

Godfred Bergstrom-Bjornfelt, who has

for the past year been occupying quarters

in the Vernon block, where he has carried on the business of a masseur and conducted Turkish baths. Mr. Bergstrom-Bjornfelt has announced himself as satisfied that the city of Victoria demands, on the patronage accorded him in the last year, an up-to-date establishment of the kind, and having purchased the land on Port Street he has now left for Sweden for the purpose of engaging the best assistants for the new business. The baths are to provide quarters for both ladies and gentlemen, and the staff of assistants which the proprietor will bring to Victoria will include two women assistants.

The land comprises a block measuring sixty by one hundred and twenty feet, and is said to have changed hands at a good figure. The new owner will build premises to cover a space of thirty feet frontage on Port Street and running the whole depth of the property.

The plans for the building are now being completed by local architects who will call for tenders within the next few days. It is estimated that by the time of Mr. Bergstrom-Bjornfelt's return here in two months that the building will be ready for occupancy and completely fitted with the best appliances of the kind necessary for the establishment.

The whole of the work in connection with the baths is to be carried out here,
and all the appliances will be procured from the local houses. The total cost of the building and the fittings will be in the close neighborhood of $15,000. The remaining half of the lot is to be held by the owner for a short time, when additions will be made for the extension of the establishment. The proprietor, who came from Sweden one year ago, learnt his business there, and has been practicing in the city since his arrival, numbering among his clients the best class of patron that the city affords, and is recommended by the medical profession highly. He considers that the business already done
here, that the city warrants the building of a first-class establishment, and that the one now being planned will be a long supply the demand, but that the additional portion of the lot will soon have to be built on.

COURT OF REVISION

COMPLETES ITS WORK

All Appeals Against the As-

essment for the Year Are

Disposed of

The sitting of the court of revision

for the hearing of appeals against the assessment, concluded its work yesterday afternoon, following which the members met as a board of equalization and will hold another session of the latter body before the roll is finally passed. A number of appeals were allowed yesterday afternoon while others were refused. In the majority of cases

no one appeared in support of the ap-

pals, but this made no difference to the board. Each such objection was considered on its merits and passed

upon as though the parties interested were there in person.

The first appeal to be dealt with after the court reassembled was that of George Morphy on behalf of Mrs. Mary

J. Hughes. Mr. Morphy accepted the offer of Mr. Northcott of a reduction of $500 on the house, which will make the assessment on the improvements $4,500.

William Kermode appeared on behalf of an appeal entered by him for the

Mrs. Tasanara estate against an as-essment of $1,000 on land and $500 on the property on Yates street adjoining the city streets. He was allowed a reduction of $100 on the valuation of the house.

Gilbert E. Milloy, 1512 Jubilee avenue,

was allowed a reduction of $200 on the assessment of his house, owing to the fact that an addition to it which was included has not yet been completed.

Rev. W. Sheridan, 1524 Jubilee avenue,

appealed against both the assessment of his house and his lot. The latter was found to be assessed the same as adjoining properties, but he was allowed

$200 on his house.

The court refused to interfere with the assessment of two lots at the corner of Prior street and King's road, which were valued by the assessor respectively at $500 and $400.

J. S. McAdam, acting for Preston &

Higgins of Winnipeg, appealed against the assessment on the lot on the corner of Johnson and Vancouver streets, the adjoining lot on Johnson street and the half lot next adjoining this, and seven lots on Speed avenue. The assessment on the first was $2,000 on land and $100 on improvements. This was confirmed. The next lot on Johnson street was assessed for $1,600 for land and $2,000 for the house that stands on

it. A reduction of $400 in the assessment of the house was granted. The fractional lot on Johnson street which was assessed at $500, was allowed to stand at that figure, as were the seven lots on Speed avenue, which were as-essed for $2,100.

Herbert W. Lees' appeal against the assessment of $1,400 against the south

half of lot 85 at the corner of Courtney

and Blanchard streets, was dismissed,

as was also A. D. Munro's against a valuation of $4,000 on his house at the corner of Quadra and Fisgard streets.

One of the big struggles of the day

occurred over the valuation of a number of lots on Cambridge street, between Oscar and Oxford streets, owned by John A. Turner. The granting of Mr. Turner's appeal necessitated the board of equalization making some changes in the assessment of adjoining property when it met after the court of revision. Mr. Turner was assessed $300

each for six lots, Nos. 5 to 10, and for twelve lots, 23 to 34, and $150 for the north half of lot 11. He was granted a reduction of $30 each on the twelve lots

and also on lots 8 and 10, and $15 on the half lot, the other four remaining unchanged. The lots on which a reduction was granted, Mr. Turner showed, were low lying and not worth as much as others in the neighborhood.

His total reduction amounts to $435.

The appeal of Joseph Dixon, acting for H. J. Marshall, against an assessment of $1,000 on a house on Spring street, was not granted.

No one appeared in support of an appel, entered by Bernard & Robertson for Mrs. A. Rocke Robertson, against an assessment of $4,080 on lot 4, block 77, Langley street, and it was dismissed as it is the same as that of adjoining properties.

Mary Peddie appealed against being assessed for $500 for a lot on North

GEORGIA SUSTAINED CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Decks Sprung, Steam Pipes Broken and Cabins Flooded in Storm.

Yesterday the Canadian-Mexican liner Georgia, Capt. Forbes, was taken alongside the wharf at the shipyard of the B. C. Marine Railway Company, Esquimalt, where repairs to the decks and fittings will be effected.

Lloyd's surveyor, T. G. Mitchell, completed his survey of the steamship and work on her will probably be commenced to-day.

When caught in a heavy storm south-bound on her last trip the Georgia's decks were sprung fore and aft, steam pipes broken and damage caused to the interior of the cabins by big seas coming inboard.

While at Salina Cruz the Georgia was almost run into by another vessel and, in escaping collision, a hose-pipe and cable were damaged. It is not yet known how long the steamship, which is scheduled to sail south on July 1st, will be delayed but there is a possibility that she will leave about the fourth of next month.

SALVOR BACK TO PORT.

Salvage Steamship Returned to Esquimalt Last Night After Raising Dauntless.

After accomplishing an exceptionally smart piece of work saving the steamer Dauntless, which stranded last Friday on Walker rock, Trincomall channel, the B. C. Salvage Company's steamship Salvor returned to Esquimalt last night.

A wireless report was yesterday received from the Salvor stating that the tug had been raised and it was expected that the salvage vessel would tow the Dauntless to Vancouver, where she will be repaired. The tug Fearless, however, took the damaged steamer in tow and the Salvor returned to Esquimalt.

AKI MARU DELAYED

Wireless Message Exchanged Between N. Y. K. Liner and Dominion Station.

After being delayed in a fog off the Vancouver Island coast for several hours, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Aki Maru passed Tatoosh signal station at 10.15 a.m. to-day and is due at William Head quarantine bay shortly before 4 o'clock.

The Aki Maru is the second of the N. Y. K. steamships running to this port which have been equipped with the radio-telegraph system. The Tango Maru, which was first equipped, left outward yesterday afternoon and was reported 56 miles off Cape Beale at 11 o'clock last night.

The Aki Maru was in communication with the local radio-telegraph station at 6 o'clock last evening, and four hours later reported her position as lat. 49 N., long. 127 W. She was expected to arrive at port this morning, but reported at 9 a.m. that she was stopped off the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca in a thick fog. An hour later the weather had cleared sufficiently for her to find her way in.

DETENTION SHED BADLY NEEDED

INCREASED SHIPPING AND IMMIGRATION

The New Building Will Fill A Long Felt Want.

Work on the new detention hospital and immigration building on Ontario street is proceeding very satisfactorily and the first story has already been erected. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of next year. The need of the new building has been felt for some years past by the local immigration officials, as the foreign steamship business to this port is constantly on the increase. Victoria enters more vessels from foreign countries than any other port of Canada and every one of these has to be met by the immigration officials, who deport objectionable characters, refuse landings to those who do not comply with the statutory law and treat immigrants who arrive suffering from minor ailments.

Every day four or five vessels from American ports have to be met, and in addition to these, there are a host of other vessels coming from the Orient, Mexico, Australia and other foreign countries.

Last month the number of vessels entering from foreign ports was 94, while the passenger traffic to the city since the beginning of the present year has been double that of the corresponding period in 1907.

At the present time the local immigration officials have no proper place of detention for rejected immigrants, or immigrants under treatment, and it is necessary to place objectionable characters and stowaways in gaol until the sailing of the vessel on which they are to be deported. In the case of passengers rejected under many provisions of the immigration law it would be both unjust and inadvisable to consign them to the city lock-up while awaiting deportation and the Dominion government, recognizing the urgent need of proper detention accommodation, is erecting a structure suited in every way to the needs of the department.

Recently the pressure of work on the local department became so heavy that the Ottawa authorities appointed two local customs officers to act as immigration officials in case of emergency.

The volume of work that is at present falling to Dr. G. L. Milne, local immigration agent and medical inspector, and his assistants may be judged from the number of vessels arriving each month from foreign ports. Daily four or five arrive, all of which must be met and dealt with, while the following companies have vessels entering regularly from foreign ports: Canadian Pacific Oriental service; Holt & Co., Liverpool and Victoria service; Canadian-Mexican line from Victoria to the Orient; Boston Steamship Company's Oriental service; Union Steamship Company's line to Australia; Weir line of steamships; Pacific Coast S. S. Company's line to San Francisco.

In addition to the above there are tramp and sailing vessels to be dealt with.

It is noteworthy that only an occasional vessel coming from a foreign port goes direct to Vancouver, about 95 per cent. being entered here first, while half a dozen of the steamship lines referred to above send their vessels from Victoria to the Orient, and which make Vancouver a loading port for any freight offering. The Weir steamships, Boston S. S. Co.'s vessels and the N. Y. K. liners do not call at Vancouver.

Those vessels which make their first entry here en route to Vancouver are dealt with by the local immigration officials as all stowaways and other persons liable to deportation are dealt with at the first port of entering. This renders it harder for them to evade any regulations when the vessel is entered.

At Vancouver the need of a detention shed has not been felt under circumstances above described, been as keenly felt. The C. P. R. maintains one at its Vancouver wharf, but in Victoria there is only the choice of placing debarred immigrants in gaol or letting them go and come at their own pleasure on the understanding that they will show up for deportation at the right time. Both courses being prejudicial to the administration of the immigration laws, it is properly felt that the erection of the detention hospital has not come too soon.

To-day Dr. Milne in an interview said, "The increasing passenger traffic to this port and the consequent expansion of the immigration officials' duties call for proper facilities for the handling of the work. The need of a detention hospital has been felt by the department and generally recognized by those having any knowledge of the conditions for some time past. It is probable that no other port in Canada enters so many vessels from foreign countries in a year as Victoria does, and this business is steadily on the increase."

CREW OF SCHOONER GLEN NOW AT 'FRISCO

Capt Hutman Recalls Wreck on Unimak Island Last Year.

Captain Frank G. Hutman, of the schooner Glen, which was wrecked at Bear Harbor, Unimak Island, last year, was a passenger by the codfisher schooner Ida McKay, which had arrived at San Francisco from Port Bennett. He confirms the story published that the Glen was blown ashore during a violent hurricane at Ikatak, Bear Harbor, Unimak Island, last year. Captain Hutman said in an interview that the only life lost was that of Herbert Mitchell, a cabin boy, 14 years of age, whose home was in Oakland.

Captain Hutman was developing the schooner when Mitchell lost his life. Captain Hutman had lashed him to the rigging, along with the rest of the crew, and when he was ashore Mitchell unfortunately fell from the rigging, fell twenty feet to the deck, and was found dead when the rescue party arrived. All the other members of the crew were saved.

Andrew Johnson and Frank Horn, two of the crew who were saved from the disastrous wreck of the John F. Miller, which was wrecked January 8th, 1908, at the same place as the Glen, met her fate, were drowned last April between Sand Point and Pirate Cove, off Popoff Island. Both men were fishing in a dory when a storm broke and swamped the boat.

Last winter was the severest known in the Arctic for twenty years, and in the sub-Arctic latitudes the deer had found it so cold that they were forced to come down to the sea beach to find sufficient food for sustenance.

Paul Rafael, Daniel Horn, R. McGill and William Goss, four codfishers who had been on Unimak Island for several years, also came down by the Ida McKay. They had originally shipped by the John F. Miller and were detained to work on the island. Owing to the wreck of the John F. Miller, the three men were left on the island before they could get away on board the Ida McKay.

The Ida McKay brought 150,000 codfish and occupied eighteen days on the voyage from Port Bennett. Captain Thomas McIntosh, of the Ida McKay, speaks without enthusiasm of the season up north, saying that the fish are not as plentiful as usual this year.

MARINE NOTES

Jebson and Ostrander, of Seattle, who have underbid Waterhouse & Company in tendering for the transportation of United States government supplies from the Pacific Coast to the Philippines this year, announce that they will charter seven large steamships. H. F. Ostrander is now in England, contracting for these vessels, which vary in capacity from 7,000 to 9,000 tons. The steamships referred to are the Virginia, Vermont, Valdivia, Vanacher, Vancouver, Vellmore and Volga.

A dispatch received yesterday conveys the information that the whaler Bowhead has reached Nome, bringing in Capt. Bodfish and the crew of the whaler William Bayless, crushed in the ice off Cape Smyth three weeks ago. The ship is a total loss, but all the men on board are safe and suffering no ill effects from exposure incident to the wreck.

The steamship Princess May arrived at Vancouver from Skagway and way ports last night with 80 passengers, and left this morning for Ladysmith to coal. She is due to-night.

The steamship President is due at 6 p.m. to-night. She is bringing a total cargo of 1,512 tons, of which 97 tons will be landed here. The passengers number 240.

The Boscowitz steamship Venture and the Union steamship Camosun will sail to-night for northern British Columbia ports.

The Alky charted steamship Indravell, Capt. Cullington, is reported sailing from Sydney, N. S. W., for this port.

LIGHT DAY IN POLICE COURT.

Only Three Cases on Docket and All Remanded For Various Reasons.

There were only three cases on the docket at the police court this morning, all of which were remanded.

The first case called was that of Estelle Carroll, charged with selling liquor without a license. Through her lawyer, J. A. Alkman, she pleaded not guilty, but in entering this plea Mr. Alkman made a statement to the court to the effect that on instructions from his client he had yesterday informed Chief Langley that he intended to plead guilty, and that he need not bring down the detectives from Vancouver, who would be the witnesses for the prosecution in the case. This morning, however, his client instructed him otherwise, and he presumed the chief would want a remand in order to produce his witnesses, and he would offer no objection to it. The case was remanded until Saturday morning.

The charge against another woman of being an inmate of a disorderly house kept by Estelle Carroll was also remanded until the same time, when it will be further stood over until such time as the court has passed upon the certiorari proceedings which Mr. Alkman is taking in connection with the conviction registered against Estelle Carroll for being the keeper of such a place.

The last case on the list was that of Quonk Sing, a Chinese charged with vagrancy. Through the court interpreter he pleaded not guilty and said that it was his intention to go to work as soon as he could get anything to do. At the request of the prosecution the case was remanded until to-morrow.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING AT CENTENNIAL CHURCH

Dr. E. A. McMicking and Miss Bone United in Marriage To-day.

A very pretty wedding took place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Centennial Methodist church, Gorge road, when Miss Maud Ethel Bone, the eldest daughter of Mr. W. H. and Mrs. Bone, of Rockland avenue, was married to Dr. E. A. McMicking, the fourth son of Mr. R. B. and Mrs. McMicking.

The ceremony was performed at the church by Rev. S. J. Thompson and the bride was attended by her two sisters, Misses Lena and Genevieve Bone. The bridegroom was supported by Dr. Geo. Hall as best man. Mr. Victor Wolfenden and Mr. John McArthur acted as ushers.

Mrs. Gideon Hicks sang the solo, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," and the wedding march was played by Mr. Edward Parsons, organist of the Metropolitan church. The bride, charmingly attired, was given away by her father. The church was profusely decorated by the girl friends of the bride.

After the wedding a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, "Stonhenge," Rockland avenue, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion in roses and ferns. The guests partook of the wedding breakfast in the dining room which was decorated with bowls of daisies and ferns with streamers of smilax and lotus flowers, while the five-tier wedding cake was ornamented with orange blossom. The reception hall with La France roses and a large floral bell composed principally of carnations.

The bride wore a dress of white chiffon and hand-made lace over satin and a hand-made lace veil. Miss Lena Bone wore pink crepe de chene over taffeta, while Miss Genevieve Bone's dress was of pale blue silk muslin. Both bridesmaids wore picture hats.

The bride and groom were the recipients of some very handsome wedding presents over two hundred in number, among which were a Doulton dinner service, several fine specimens of cut glass, many silverware, hand-painted china and about a dozen very valuable pieces of oak and mahogany furniture.

The bridegroom's present to the bride was a ring of diamonds and pearls, and the bridesmaids received a pearl pendant and an amethyst bracelet. The best man and the ushers were presented with pearl scarf pins.

Mr. and Mrs. McMicking will leave to-night on the steamer President to spend the honeymoon on a trip to the Sound cities, and on their return will reside on Yates street.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR ANOTHER NIGHT

New Programme Will Be Put on This Evening.

To the disappointment of many hundreds of citizens last evening, it threatened rain. The result was that the attendance at the great spectacular display at the Royal Athletic grounds was much smaller than would otherwise have been the case. In spite of the indications that there would be a shower, the attendance was large and the grand stand was well filled.

The local syndicate responsible for the putting on of this show have, however, decided that Victorians shall not be disappointed and accordingly entered into arrangements last evening, through the courtesy of the proprietors of the show, to have another night of the fireworks and all the accompanying effects. To-night therefore the full programme will be repeated with a new series of fire works.

Fortunately no rain fell last evening to interfere with the display but the outlook was indeed dark just about the time the crowd was making ready to attend.

The exhibition last evening well repaid all who took chances on the weather and attended. Very pretty effects were produced in connection with the fete at Naples. The eruption of Vesuvius and the destruction of the city was repeated on the scene.

In addition to these pretty spectacular effects the acrobatic work during the early part of the evening is a great attraction. The company includes some very clever tumblers and bar performers whose work was very loudly applauded. To-night the show alone repays attendance.

The fireworks, which bring the entertainment to a close, far exceed anything shown before. In addition to the rockets there are many beautiful effects produced which can only be seen from the grounds. Last evening the appearance of the Princess Victoria, the steamship of which Victorians are all proud, was greeted with loud applause. Niagara Falls besides this there were many other pretty scenes which kept the large crowd in the audience until the "good night" display was thrown on the scene.

The programme for to-night's farewell performance will be a varied one both in the circus features and in the fire portrait of His Majesty King Edward, in which over five hundred separate pieces of fireworks are simultaneously ignited. The Queen's Lance and a gigantic chromolithograph of the King, with a double transformation, the Yellowstone geysers, midday's magical fan, parachute rockets, and numerous other effective novelties.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

Suggestion Made That Citizens Might Have Such an Office.

When a stranger moves into town there are certain problems which at once confront him, such as what to do with the ashes and garbage, what public school his children should attend, what taxes he should pay, and when and where, says the Municipal Journal and Engineer. There are certain ordinances also which he should observe, such as that requiring cleaning the snow from his sidewalk within a certain time after each storm, not using a lawn sprinkler during certain hours, etc. Too often the citizen is informed of such an ordinance only when its penalty is enforced against him.

We do not know of any way in which a greater general benefit could be conferred by a citizens' society than by the compiling, publishing and general distribution of a pamphlet, giving in the briefest possible form the information suggested above, in connection with which it would be desirable to give the names and office addresses of the various city officials, and a statement as to what particular function of the city government and maintenance appertain to each. We would also suggest that a certain member of the society, or possibly one for each ward or other subdivision of the city, be named as a committee on complaints, to whom any citizen may report what he considers a dereliction of any official or city employee, or, if it would seem too great a burden to impose upon one citizen, a burden to make him the mouthpiece for universal complaint, he could act as an information bureau, and instruct citizens concerning what department or individual of the city government complaints should be made to.

Along with the growing appreciation of parkways comes the recognition of the value, even necessity, of a setting of greenward for all public buildings. In the past, areas set aside for municipal buildings have had the whole available space covered by one or more structures. A lawn belt about all municipal buildings is now being demanded and the cry is growing louder and more unmistakable that these plantations should be wider. When this growing artistic spirit has reached the proper stage we shall find grass-covered parkways and street trees on all our principal business streets.

Now that the live oak has been planted on streets long enough to get a secure foothold in the soil, it is vindicated itself, says the Los Angeles Times. For the first three years, unless well supplied with water, the lack of growth is quite exasperating. It appears that about three years are needed to allow the oak to get a proper root system developed, but after that period the growth increases as the years go on, and if soil conditions are good and water supply sufficient, they are not a slow-growing tree.

MAKING STUDY OF SEA BIRD'S NESTS

Curator Kermode Visited Island to Secure Specimens.

Preparations are being made to put up a case of birds at the provincial museum for the purpose of illustrating the way in which the sea birds make their nests and raise their young. With this aim in view Francis Kermode and his deputy, E. M. Anderson, have been scouring the country for specimens and other materials for the collection.

On Monday these gentlemen, in company with W. F. Burton and Provincial Constable Lumley, made a trip to Skip Jack and other islands in the Gulf of Georgia, and met with considerable success in their mission. While the nests at Skip Jack had been recently robbed by the Indians, they discovered other islands in that neighborhood on the American side where puffins, gulls, and glaucous-winged gulls breed in large numbers. There were also some cormorants and other birds which, to the naturalists, proved most interesting.

Skip Jack is about twenty-five miles off Sidney, and the fact that it was so far away made it necessary for the party to stay away all night, arriving home on the Sidney train yesterday evening.

To-morrow Mr. Kermode leaves for a trip up Mount Arrowsmith in search of ptarmigan, which at this time of year have on their brown summer plumage.

The scheme which Mr. Kermode has in hand is to make a miniature gulf island with the gulls' nests on the ledges, the gulls' nests beneath the small boulders and the puffins deep in the recesses of the cliffs. This will be a great attraction, and will prove of more value than any number of ordinary collections of specimens.

MUNICIPAL CLEANING.

Excellent Practice of Having Days Set Apart for Purpose.

It has become quite a fad in Southern California to proclaim and observe certain days as "clean-up" days, especially in our smaller cities, our towns and villages, says the Los Angeles Times. On these days the mayor, council, trustees, board of health or some constituted power or authority has asked the residents to clean up their yards and the streets and alleys abutting to beautify their premises, plant and care for street trees and strive in every way to make their community more attractive and healthful and therefore more valuable from a really point of view.

The idea is a most excellent one, and should be encouraged in every community, and should be made permanent, setting aside one day each month or one day each quarter in which all should aim to make the place more liveable. Municipal health and beauty mean wealth, both collectively and individually. Homeowners are not attracted by dirty and slovenly municipal housekeeping; cleanliness means, or is, capital, and it has been observed that the greatest growth of population has been in those centres made the most healthful and attractive, and this through zealous, well-directed co-operation.

Nothing we may provide for the school children promises richer returns than the school gardens. Aside from the educational and physical advantages to be derived by the child direct the homes are planted, park building encouraged and flower shows, plant exhibitions, etc., of the future assured. Thus far the movement has been confined to the cities, but it is really as much needed in the country and smaller towns. The school garden should find a hearty response among all people. At the rose show recently held a city school carried off prizes.

—The Fifth regiment band will give a concert in Beacon Hill park this evening between 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock, this being one of the summer series arranged for by the parks board.

FUTURE OF CRANBROOK IS FULLY ASSURED

Many Industries Showing Great Promise Are Tributary to City.

There is no longer any room for speculation as to the future of Cranbrook City. Surrounded by a rich mineral district, inhabited by a thrifty and enterprising class of business men and citizens; the railway centre of a vast empire, being the terminus of all roads and trails that lead to and from every mining and lumbering camp in Southeast Kootenay, Cranbrook is not only the largest city in the district, but it is the most important by long odds, from a commercial standpoint. It is the distributing centre for this vast territory of mineral fields and agricultural lands which surround it. It is also the centre of an immense lumbering country. Vast areas of fine farming, grazing and fruit lands are tributary to Cranbrook.

Prospectors, miners, lumbermen
and farmers, from Pilot Bay to Elk River, from the international boundary to the Windermere district, are dependent upon its merchants for supplies, consequently they must make their headquarters within the gates of the city of Cranbrook. There is no argument then, as to the common judgment, why Cranbrook at the present time, and in the future, will not be the leading city of this large and growing district. No railways to be constructed in the future can escape us, and its promoters will not try, as public enterprise stands ready to-day to build to or from this city. There is no doubt but that Cranbrook is now, and ever will be, the railway, lumbering, agricultural as well as the commercial centre of this district.
These facts are patent to all. The march of progress is on and cannot be stopped. The new era is about to dawn that will make Southeast Kootenay the banner fruit and agricultural district of British Columbia with Cranbrook as its capital—Cranbrook Prospect.

PRINCE RUPERT.

The above shows the first cut on the G. T. P. at Prince Rupert. The grade is now 300 feet long and the face of the cut is 33 feet deep in solid rock. In wet weather the large tarpaulin rolled up is stretched across the cut to protect the men while mucking.

July, is encountering considerable difficulty. The athletic programme has all been arranged and promises to be a huge success. The regatta, however, is not going so well. The Indians who had been offered $5 a paddle are asking for $8, and this the committee absolutely refuses to give. They would rather put up a handsome trophy for competition for Victoria four-oared crews, but the date is rather inopportune and it is doubtful if it can be worked.

The Victoria clubs also are rather ticked on the amateur question. They take the ground that as cash prizes are being offered the whole thing is being run under professional auspices, and that, therefore, they cannot compete.
This is wrong. Professional and amateur events can be brought off at any athletic meeting so long as they are distinctly specified and the professional does not compete with or against the amateur. The regatta will be strictly amateur, and the committee are very anxious to get the Victorians to come.
They are prepared to put up really handsome prizes for water polo, relay swimming race, and a four-oared competition. The Y. M. C. A. and the J. B.
A. A. could enter a couple of crews each or more for the event, and the committee would put up a cup which the winners would feel proud to possess. It is at least hoped that the present difficulty will be removed, and that the Victorians will be up and in large numbers. Their attendance is all that is necessary to make the day a great sporting success.

Personal Movements.
Mr. and Mrs. P. Hutchinson and daughter left town on Saturday for St.
Louis.
Miss Lepansky came down from Nanalmo this morning.
Miss Gourlay returned this morning
from a short visit to Nanaimo.
Jos. Meiss was in town to-day.
Mr. and Mrs. W. Myles are on a visit to relatives in Seattle.
Mrs. P. Cain and family are spending a couple of weeks in Vancouver.
Miss Geraldine Hirst returned from a short visit to Nanaimo this morning.
John McGill, of Vancouver, is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. T.
Jackson.
Mrs. R. Gordon paid a visit to Nana-

try, arrived in Alberni by the S. S.

portant holdings of the company here
will not at present be put on the mar-

It is possible that a portion of the town-

Last week A. D. Cooper, real estate

Mr. Wright is an expert horseman, two months after big game, has just come down to the front. He has been

Spring salmon have been running but not quite so well as in former years.

(Special Correspondence).
Alberni, June 22.—C. A. Cox, chief constable for the West Coast, returned from Nootka on the 18th inst., where he had been investigating the disappearance of the Waters brothers and searching for the one whose body has not yet been recovered. Next day he was called to Victoria to give evidence at the coroner's inquest and left again
by the S.S. Teas on Sunday for Nootka, where another effort will be made to obtain more information.
According to the medical evidence at the inquest it appears that a portion of the skull, or side of the head, was missing in the body recently brought to Victoria, and if the missing piece can be found its appearance or position may throw some light on the manner in which the unfortunate man met his death.
Those of the public who think that more results might be forthcoming
from the investigations made, forget, or are not aware, of the nature of the ground to be searched. The small portion of the reserve which is clear is covered by a rank growth of coarse grasses resembling rushes, all grown up since the white men disappeared. The rest of the reserve is heavy brush with a thick growth of underbrush, sal-lall, salmon berries, etc., while it must also be remembered that the white men disappeared three months ago and the heavy spring rains have long since washed away and covered up any traces by which their movements might have been followed.

JUBILEE WEEK AT ST. ANN'S

PREPARATIONS FOR THE CELEBRATION

Sisters of the Roman Catholic Convent Busy at Home.

When fifty years ago four brave ladies, two of whom are still alive and resident in this city, first set foot on the shores of Vancouver Island from an arduous trip from Montreal via Panama and San Francisco, and through winter storms off the Oregon coast, little thought, perhaps, had they of the great work that would be the outcome of their long journey so bravely taken in the interests of the few residents then here, and when they were finally housed in the little two-roomed log hut, that to-day stands boarded over on a lot on South Park street, little perhaps, did they think of the fine edifice which to-day stands across the road from the little hut which for many long and dreary years sheltered them from the snow storm, wind and rain; little maybe did they realize that the work to which they had devoted their lives would be crowned during their lifetime as it is to-day by the fiftieth anniversary of their advent to the island.

It is fifty years ago this week that the four sisters of St. Ann's convent, Montreal, landed in Victoria, having come out via the Panama and San Francisco at the urgent request of Bishop Demers, the first bishop who set foot in the then wild territory of British Columbia. These four brave sisters, strong in their love of their life's work and their faith, answered the urgent call, sent by circuitous route to the headquarters at Montreal, and followed the same circuitous route through sea storm and peril, to the work which awaited them here, and which to-day stands as a monument for all time to their steadfastness, courage and intensity of purpose.

Their reward to-day is in part only for two of their number are long gone at the call of death, and what pleasure is theirs in the coming celebration is mixed with sad memories of the departed sisters. These, and many other old memories, have been awakened within the last few weeks, during the plans for the coming event, and the two surviving ladies, who are now well on in the eighties, in talking of the times gone by have during the past days found themselves drawn to tears with the memories of the olden time, its perils, its work and its almost monumental success. To-day as a monument of their work there stands beside the little log hut, their first abode, the handsome academy on Humboldt street with the memories of the splendid humanitarian work done in the long years, and of the reflex of that work handed down through educational means from the daughters of the officials of the old Hudson's Bay fort, to their children and their grandchildren who to-day are the pupils of the nuns of the academy.

This week is commemorative week and the golden jubilee of the academy, when the present scholars will hold four days of celebration beginning tomorrow with the annual commencement and ending with the solemn high mass of thanksgiving on Sunday.

For this occasion the pupils of years gone by have been invited to attend, and many have signified to the Superiors their intention of being present. From the nearby States word has been received from many of the old scholars of the mainland of British Columbia others have written that they will be here to renew their acquaintance with the home of their girlhood, while from far off lands expressions of regret that distance prevents their presence on this occasion have been received from other pupils of the academy. The Superiors have also extended an invitation to the citizens of Victoria to be present on all or any of the days, and while special invitations have been sent to many, there are numbers who will be welcomed without invitation, who will doubtless play away themselves of the pleasure of assisting in the convent's golden jubilee.

In the records of the academy are large folios which, written in French by Sister Mary Matthews, contain the records of the institution through the long years it has been established. In 1864 a home for little boys was built at Qualicum, and one year later at New Westminster the convent was established. In 1868 at Mission city, the Indian college was established, and St. Joseph's hospital, in this city, was built seven years later. Two years after the convent at New Westminster was erected, and was followed by the Kamloops convent school in 1880. The next establishment was built at Juneau, Alaska in 1886 and Douglas Island hospital and school were erected one year later. In 1888 the Vancouver convent was finished and the Kamloops industrial school followed in 1892 preceding the Kuper Island convent by one year. St. Ann's convent, Victoria, holds the proud position of being the oldest school north of San Francisco, and from the windows of St. Cecilia's studio on the south side can be seen the little hut which was the beginning of it all. The building of the first addition in 1860 boarded over, and in later years when the addition had advanced beyond repair and was pulled down the original logs of the hut itself were found firm and staunch and apparently good for another half century. This little historical landmark will be of great interest during the coming celebrations and will doubtless be viewed by many of the visitors. Coming down to the present there are in the academy itself many splendid examples of the work of the present students shown in hand-painted china, pencil drawings and oil and water colors.

The programme for the celebrations has been arranged as follows. Tomorrow the fiftieth annual commencement will be held at 2:30 p. m., commencing with music and literary exercises which will be followed by the recital of a composition of Miss K. P. Lyter, of the class '08. The awarding of the two medals, the presentation of the governor general's conferring of certificates and testimonials of honor, and the address will follow. Miss Lyter's poem is entitled "A Vision Realized." On Friday there will be commemorative exercises at Institute hall at 8 o'clock, at which the following programme will be given: Slavische Tanze, No. 2 (Anton Dvorak), Misses Smith and McElhinney first piano, and Misses Quirk and McDowell second piano. Address by A. E. McPhillips, K. C., M. P. P. Chorus: "Golden Bells of Jubilee."

BABY, HOW IS NURSE?

The old question used to be, "Nurse, how is baby?" In these summer days it is sometimes requisite to ask: "Baby, how is nurse?" Is she wheeling a heavy-going carriage or an easy-to-push Whitney carriage, which costs no more and lasts twice as long? We are Victoria agents for the Whitney and have a splendid stock in our third floor showrooms.

"God Save The King."

On Saturday afternoon will be the reception of former pupils and friends from 3 till 5 o'clock at St. Ann's academy, and on Sunday the Golden Jubilee will terminate with the solemn high mass and to deem at 10:30 at St. Andrew's cathedral and a sermon by Rev. Clement Cairns.

Of the four nuns who came first to this city fifty years ago two of them are still living and pursuing their daily avocations at the convent on Humboldt street. They are now enjoying the rest of long years of service and take no active part except that of supervision of the work. Their life has been one of devotion, spent in the sanctity of convent life and in doing good works for their fellow creatures, in which they have now found their reward after fifty long years. Their work has not alone been devoted to adherents of the Catholic religion, for the annals of the convent go to show that the scholars who have received the benefit of the nuns' teaching are more of other religions than of the Catholic faith. These pupils are now scattered broadcast throughout the world. Many of them, however, have descendants living here who attend the classes daily and among them are the grandchildren of the daughters of the officials of the old Hudson's Bay fort.

For the coming celebration the grounds of the convent are fast taking on a festive appearance. The decorations are being carried out on an extensive scale. At the entrance a huge arch is being erected and inside the building the scholars are busy with the manufacture of decorative hangings, which are being hung from all conceivable points. Every effort is being made to make the celebration worthy of the great occasion.
